SUMMARY.

Critics consider the isolated actions on the Western front do not indicate that the enemy is on the eve of a big offensive.

The United Press correspondent says that events are speeding along the West front; raids and patrols have greatly increased.

Hindenburg is, the correspondent states, "probing and testing everywhere," and losing heavily.

Field-Marshal Haig reports that the British have made successful raids south-east of Armentieres and repulsed enemy raids.

A French communique states that there have been fairly lively bombardments on the Chaume Wood front at Verdun.

French artillery broke up an enemy attack near Reillon, in Lorraine, as the Germans were preparing to leave their trenches.

The Germans continue their attacks on the American troops, but have been repulsed with considerable losses.

A feature of the fighting of the Americans is their extensive use of automatic pistols, with which they are most proficient.

Several stirring minor engagements have taken place on the Australian front.

British aircraft have successfully raided the enemy's seaplane sheds at Ostend.

German official messages say that, owing to the Russo-Germany peace treaty, military movements in Great Russia have ceased.

An earlier German communique reports having, after a hard fight, captured Pleskau and Polosk.

The Germans state that their captures since the present invasion of Russia began include 63,000 officers and men, and 2400 big guns.

Petrograd advices state the Revolutionary Committee has summoned all military officers to co-operate in the defence of the city.

The peace delegation wired the Council of Commissaries not to surrender anything without a struggle, and to fight to the last.

Nevertheless, it appears the delegates decided to sign peace terms regardless of conditions.

Lenin and Trotsky report that the latest German peace terms are more stringent than those of February 25.

They were presented by the Germans to the Russian delegation as an ultimatum, and were signed without discussion.

Under the terms, Russia is compelled to yield up the Transcaucasian districts of Batoum, Kars, and Karaghan.

Advices received in Copenhagen state that Roumania has rejected the German peace terms, the King refusing them.

The "Weser Zeitung" says Mackensen has prepared a rapid offensive against Roumania in the event of her refusal to accept.

An official German message states:—A further armistice has been granted Roumania to continue peace negotiations.

A Copenhagen message states that a German squadron has transported troops to the Aaland Islands.

Germany has notified Sweden that she intends to use these islands as a base for despatching troops to Finland.

The Swedish Government has sharply protested. The situation is causing great excitement in Sweden.

Japanese and Chinese troops have entered Siberia. The Japanese are merely guarding the railway near Harbin.

Stockholm messages state that a terrible famine prevails in Helsingfors.

Mr. Redmond is likely to resign the leadership of the Irish Nationalists. Mr. Dillon will probably succeed him.

A section of the Nationalist party has asked Mr. Hughes to call the Federal Parliament together at once.

They say that questions such as recruiting, defence, and finance call for immediate consideration.

Sir William Irvine says that a fatal apathy is creeping over the people who are being led on a false course.

The question of our duty towards the Empire must come before Australia again soon, and not in the form of a referendum.

Parliament must take the responsibility of doing what was necessary to save the nation in this time of crisis.

The State Government is prepared to lease Walsh Island to the Commonwealth with the option of purchase.

It is stated that the value of the plant and fittings at the Island is £530,000.

The Minister for Works (Mr. Ball) says the State Government is most anxious that a start should be made with shipbuilding.

A terrific cyclone was reported to be raging near Maryborough (Q.) yesterday. It is stated the disturbance is coming southwards.

A board is to be appointed by the Victorian Government to settle the dispute between the doctors and the lodges.

In the Legislative Assembly yesterday, the Industrial Arbitration Amendment Bill was further considered.

Queensland's revenue for the eight months ended February 28 was £4,932,365, compared with £4,715,573 for the previous period.

The sending of Victorians to work at the Richmond and Pelaw Main mines is causing dissatisfaction among miners.

Some members of the Miners' Federation in Victoria threaten drastic action unless the practice is discontinued.

The appeal on behalf of the Lord Mayor's Patriotic Fund closes on Thursday. The amount on hand is £27,230.

No settlement had been reached up to yesterday of the dispute at the small arms factory at Lithgow.

The select committee appointed for the purpose has concluded the taking of evidence on the Woronora water scheme.

Areas of land, comprising 15,251 acres, have been purchased in Victoria for the settlement of returned soldiers.

Negotiations are proceeding for the purchase by the State of other properties for closer settlement.

Requests for the investigation of the prices of sugar, beef, and other commodities have been made to the Commissioner of Prices.

Mr. Trethowan, speaking at a farmers' conference, in Melbourne, yesterday, complained of mismanagement in Federal departments.

The council of the Melbourne University favours the total or partial remission of fees in certain cases of returned soldiers.

Returns for last week show that recruiting is still falling off in the various States.

The Director-general of Recruiting (Mr. Mackinnon) said yesterday that no time would be lost in launching the new scheme.

The Kitchener Flag Fund, to give relief to returned blind and incapacitated soldiers, was opened by the Lord Mayor yesterday.

The dispute at the Collie (W.A.) collieries has been settled by the acceptance of the Government's conditions.

A resolution was adopted at the congress of returned soldiers in Hobart in favour of the payment of higher pensions.

A contingent of sick and wounded soldiers will arrive by special train this morning.

Trouble has arisen in connection with the inauguration of the 44 hours week on the mines at Kalgoorlie.

At the yearling sales in Melbourne yesterday 106 yearlings were disposed of for 14,595 guineas.

A moderate amount of business was done in mining shares on the Stock Exchange yesterday.

A large volume of business was transacted in the investment section, values in most cases being lower.

A strong demand existed for woolpacks yesterday. Business was done at 6s 9d, and at the close of the day most holders asked 6s.

All metal lines were quiet. Notwithstanding the easing in the quotations for fencing wire there was little demand.

The sheep market at Homebush was dull yesterday. The cattle market was very irregular.

Violent seas are running on the east coast of New Zealand, and considerable damage has been done.

Forecast:—Generally unsettled and sultry, with scattered rain and thunderstorm, some isolated strong local blows inland, probably with hail, stormy conditions on the North Coast, with heavy rain, south-east gale, and rough sea, possibly affecting the seaboard as far south as Newcastle.

THE HOUSE OF DISTINCTION.

FARMER'S PRE-EMINENT AUTUMN FASHION DISPLAY,

SETTING

THE STYLE STANDARDS

FOR AUTUMN AND WINTER, 1918.

SECOND DAY TO-DAY

(LASTING TILL SATURDAY ONLY).

FARMER'S FASHION EXPOSITIONS—HELD AT THE BEGINNING OF EACH NEW SEASON —ARE LOOKED TO BY FASHIONABLE WOMEN AS THE HERALDS OF AUTHORITATIVE STYLE FOR THE ENSUING PERIOD.

The many interested women who attended yesterday's parades, or viewed the new goods in either Windows or Salons, were appreciative of the style and distinctive features characterising this—Sydney's foremost Autumn Fashion Display.

THE PRINCIPAL FEATURES YOU WILL NOTE.

NEW SEASON'S FURS AND FUR COATS.
The Fur styles for the 1918 Autumn Season revert for inspirations and charming effects to the Early Victorian Era. This is particularly noticeable in the short Shoulder Capes, either in Natural, Raccoon, Skunk, Seal, American Opossum, White Fox, etc. Fox Furs of the Tango shape again receive prominence. Almost any woman who sees these delightful Furs will at once decide Winter is her favourite season.
Showing in Display Theatre, First Floor.

CHARMING NEW COSTUMES,
AFTERNOON AND EVENING GOWNS.
The Coats and Skirts are perfectly cut and fashioned in Gabardines, Coating Serges, Tweeds, Covert Coatings, etc. The Exquisite Afternoon Gowns are of Georgette or Satin, or maybe Crepe de Chine, or combinations of either. Beautifully trimmed Evening Gowns in Black Net, Satin, or Georgette—all hold the viewer enraptured as new and original designs and colour effects are revealed on living Mannequins, who parade To-day and To-morrow only from 11 to 1, and 2.30 to 4.30, in the Costume Salon, Second Floor, where special settings have been erected to show to their advantage the fashion inspirations of the Season.

CORSET DEMONSTRATION ON LIVING MODELS.
The new Gossard Lace-in-front Corset will be demonstrated on Living Models daily from 2.30 to 4.30, in Corset Salon, Fourth Floor.

A WORD ABOUT OUR WINDOWS.
Not to mention the crowds who specially made Farmer's their rendezvous yesterday, many a chance passer-by was attracted by the alluring and enchanting colour schemes, art decorations, and imaginative spirit—savouring of the Orient—which form the basis of our window displays this season.

OTHER FEATURES.
Pleasing Interior Store Decorations.
Specially Displayed New Autumn Millinery, in the Millinery Salon, Third Floor.
General Display of very newest Fashion Goods in every Department.

Further particulars of this interesting Fashion Carnival are related on the Dress and Fashion Page.

A CONTINUANCE OF

THE AUTUMN DISPLAYS

AT FARMER'S

TO-DAY.

Expressions of appreciation rewarded us from all sides for our lavish expenditure of time, care, and energy upon presenting the 1918 Autumn Fashions to Sydney.

Our aim is to simplify your task of choosing a successful New Season's Outfit, and towards its accomplishment we organised the charming Mannequin Parades; the instructive Corset Living Model Demonstrations; the interesting Fur-Revue; and the picturesque displays in Windows and Salons—throughout the House.

ATTRACTIONS CONTINUE TO-DAY.

For full particulars concerning hours of commencement we refer you to the Front Page announcement—reminding you that the Parades and Demonstrations last till to-morrow only—urging you to the fact that they are well worth seeing. If only from the economy viewpoint, they are worth your while, demonstrating as they do how to dress with distinction from the merest detail, at the minimum of cost—because there are no disappointments in the wardrobe whose destiny is guided by Farmer's.

Meanwhile a few words upon leading Fashion points in Blouses, Millinery, and Footwear may prove of benefit.

THE NEWEST MODEL BLOUSES.

GEORGETTE AND CREPE DE CHINE KEEN RIVALS FOR FAVOUR.

They will not remain rivals long, for both Georgette and Crepe de Chine Blouses will find an equally warm welcome on account of their charm—judging by Farmer's displays. The Georgette Blouses were never so charming—and, it may be added, never so practical. Though unlined, they wash beautifully. The Crepe de Chine Blouses have taken to themselves pleated vestettes and high collars, as well as long rolling collars and ties. The Georgette Blouses appear with charming hand-embroidery and Filet lace insertion as trimming.

NEW MILLINERY MODES.

MATCHING SETS ARE FAVOURED, PICTURESQUE LINES IN LARGE HATS WILL BE WORN.

True elegance of line is the cult of the moment in Millinery—and one can easily guess that this type will meet with favour, as it is becoming to so many without destroying the exclusive tone. Matching sets are also favoured, —the scarf and handbag or muff following the keynote of the hat. Some of Farmer's prices for distinctive picture models follow:—

LOVELY MODEL IN PICTURE SHAPE has been executed in Black Velvet: the crown has the high effect and is swathed with wide Parrot Green ribbon, and hand made futurist flowers, the broad leaf with extremely graceful lines.
PRICE .... 69/6.

BLUE "DUVETYN" MODEL, the wide picture leaf being softened at border, an ideal crown, distinguished by touch of crochet work to tone, together with one large globe ornament, which dangles at side.
PRICE .... 4½ gns.

ELEGANT MODEL SET OF HAT AND BAG is carried out on Turban lines. This is in Nigger Brown Velvet, Silk, and real Skunk fur, a jaunty tassel at extreme edge, of platinum and mastic shades, make a smart effect. The bag corresponds perfectly, and worn together, lend a very chic effect.
PRICE .... 8 gns.

THE "CRAZY" SKIRTS.

A NOVELTY IN THE WORLD OF GIRLS' WEAR.

Exactly in harmony with the moods of youth—bright, charming, and artistic are the "Crazy" Skirts—which formerly made a bid for favour, but have come out in all perfection for this Autumn season, and are sure to be a success. Showing in the Girls' Departments.

NOVELTY SKIRT IN "CRAZY" DELAINE of new and unique pattern, very Oriental in appearance, and the combination of colourings is most charming. DISPLAY OF

AUTUMN FASHIONS

TO-DAY AND ALL THIS WEEK.

Yesterday we had the pleasure of exhibiting and explaining many new things to crowds of interested visitors. May we hope to see you to-day?

AUTUMN MILLINERY.

Amongst the strongest indications to be gleaned from the late models of French Millinery showing to-day, is that of the vogue of

VELOUR VELVET.

There is a peculiar richness of effect inseparable from fabrics of this nature that is never without its appeal, and to which these models noted below lend a charming emphasis.

The Oriental influence—one of the inescapable facts of the coming season—is also plainly visible.

A High Crowned Model in Bottle Green Velour Velvet, soft crown, plain band to match, Nigger Brown Cloth brim, Brown beaded ornament finishing front and back.

Very Becoming Hat, in Nattier Blue Velour Velvet, high crown, soft folded brim, wide at sides, slightly turned up, handsome Egyptian ornament at side.

Black Velvet Hat, large size, slightly drooping brim, touches of Tango San Georgette lining, blanket stitch on soft edge, finished with Oriental Ornament.

OTHER MODELS,
illustrating the most brilliant ideas of French and British Milliners, and introducing many charming novelties in materials and trimmings, are now displayed.

Evidently the smaller Hat, verging on the toque, is to be "Smart," satisfactory news to those who love the dainty, piquant little confection that is so intensely alive in its becoming effect and style.

And the large hat, with its graceful lines and daring shape innovations, offers the completest solution of the demands for Something Different—Something Characteristic.

MY MODERN DENTAL SERVICE
ALWAYS GIVES SATISFACTION.

I wish I could have a heart-to-heart talk with every man or woman who contemplates having a tooth out. DON'T if it can be saved. If it must come out, let me painlessly extract it and replace it. I am not so good a dentist as Nature, but I guarantee that you cannot get better or cheaper dental service elsewhere. I learned many new methods while on active service, which gives me a tremendous advantage in my practice; and if you will consult me I can quickly convince you as to why I can give you superior dental service, combining the very latest features of modern dental surgery.

During my stay in England and France, whilst on active service, I was able to investigate the very latest army methods which dire necessity had brought into existence and which before the war dwelt only in the realm of the dentally impossible.

I offer you my service, with a guarantee of absolute immunity from pain, and you will pass from my chair entirely free from the usual nerve-wracking ordeal which in the past has been the regular experience of dental subjects. I can fill the sorest tooth or extract the most painful stump so that you do not feel the slightest twinge. I specialise in crown, bridge, and pivot work.

Come to me and let me advise you, free of charge, on your tooth health. I will give you honest and candid advice, entirely in your own interest, and you may accept it or not, as you choose. You incur no obligation by coming. If I do any work for you I guarantee that it will be entirely satisfactory in every respect.

LAW REPORT.

IN BANCO.

(Before Sir William Cullen, C.J., Mr. Justice Sly, and Mr. Justice Ferguson.)

KILNER v KILNER.

DIVORCE APPEAL STRUCK OUT.

By consent of both parties an appeal in the divorce suit, Kilner v Kilner, was struck out. The Judge in Divorce, after hearing a petition by the husband, Alfred (or Fred) Kilner, and a counter petition by the wife Eliza Kilner, dismissed both suits. The wife subsequently lodged a notice of appeal, which was now withdrawn. Mr. Stephen (Messrs. Parish and Stephen) appeared for the appellant (Mrs. Kilner) and Mr. J. J. Jagelman for the respondent. The Court ordered £25 lodged in connection with the appeal to be paid out to the appellant or her solicitor, and made no order as to costs.

CAIN v CAIN.

INSUFFICIENT SERVICE.

This appeal was before the Court by way of a special case, referred from Mr Justice Street, in Chambers, involving a decision of Mr. Hawkins, D.S.M., sitting as a Children's Court, in a proceeding in which the parties were Nicholas John Cain, a commercial traveller (applicant), and Mary Cain, his wife, (respondent). On June 2, 1916, on the application of Mary Cain, an order was made that the husband should pay her 20/ a week on the grounds that he had left her without means of support. Later on the order was varied so that the husband had to pay her 25s per week. On November 20 the husband having, as he alleged, discovered that since the date of the last order his wife had misconducted herself, applied to the magistrate to vary the order on the ground that the misconduct released him from any further obligation for his wife's support. The respondent denied the charge. The magistrate decided that the evidence adduced by the applicant afforded no grounds upon which to vary the order for maintenance, and dismissed the application. This appeal challenged the correctness of his Worship's decision. The special case came originally before Mr. Justice Street, in Chambers, when respondent's counsel took the objection that an appeal by way of special case did not lie from a decision of this sort, and that the application was not by way of information or complaint. The point was referred by his Honor for the decision of the Full Court. Mr. Collins (instructed by Mr. W. C. Moseley), appeared in support of the appeal, and Mr. Abrahams (instructed by Messrs. John Williamson and Sons) represented the respondent.

Mr. Abrahams raised two preliminary objections to the hearing of the appeal, the first being that taken before Mr. Justice Street, and the second, that the special case and notice of appeal were not personally served on the respondent—a statutory condition precedent to the hearing of an appeal demanded by the Justices Act. After hearing argument the Court upheld the second objection and dismissed the appeal, allowing the respondent costs of the proceedings in Chambers only, their Honors being of opinion that if the second objection had been taken before Mr. Justice Street the matter might have gone no further.

STRUCK OFF THE ROLL.

A rule nisi, granted by the Court at the opening of term, calling upon Edward Osborne Litchfield, solicitor, to answer certain allegations contained in affidavits presented by the Incorporated Law Institute, being returnable, Mr. Clubb (instructed by Mr. T. Mitchell) appeared on behalf of the Institute to proceed, and announced that the Institute had received a letter intimating that the solicitor did not intend to appear. A number of affidavits sworn to by clients of the respondent were read, charging him with receiving monies on their behalf, for which he had failed to account. In his letter to the Institute, intimating his intention not to appear, the respondent said that, having drifted into the financial state of having to ask for time from his creditors, he sacrificed everything he possessed to meet his obligations, and he was sorry that some were still unpaid, though he promised to do his best to pay them as soon as possible.

The Chief Justice, in delivering judgment, said the material before the Court established several instances of very gross misconduct on the part of the solicitor, some of the instances being in connection with debts which he had undertaken to collect, and having received monies, failing to account for them to the creditors. Other instances were that he acted as solicitor to parties, received money on their behalf, and did not account for it. In such an application as this the Court was not concerned with whatever remedies or whatever proceedings might be taken against the respondent in other jurisdictions. It was concerned only with the disciplinary jurisdiction vested in it for seeing that those entrusted with the highly responsible duties and privileges of solicitors should be fit and proper persons to be so entrusted. On the evidence before the Court there was only one conclusion possible—that the respondent was absolutely unfit to be so entrusted, and that his name must be removed from the rolls. He must also pay the Law Institute the cost of these proceedings.

MANUFACTURER'S BANKRUPTCY.

Martin McCray, a bankrupt, was examined by Mr. C. F. W. Lloyd, official assignee, before the Registrar in Bankruptcy (Mr. F. H. Salusbury). The bankrupt stated that he had never been bankrupt before. He attributed his bankruptcy to several things—the strike, and through being a little bit rash, and gambling on racehorses. About two years ago he went into the manufacturing business, making ladies' garments. He bought the material, and had it made up at factories outside. He never kept strict books, only account of what he owed and what was owing to him. He did not keep a cash-book. He generally carried £200 or £250 stock. When he was an agent, he also bought and sold on his own account, as a speculation. He could not say why he did not pay two accounts—£79 and £29—deals on which he made a profit. He had generally a good deal of cash on him, and he probably went to the races and lost the money there. If he had kept away from racing and gambling he would have been able to pay his way. At the last Spring Meeting at Randwick he lost over £100. He often played poker, with 2/ rises.

Continuing, the bankrupt said that he did not tell his creditors that he wanted goods, as Mrs. McCray was going to start a shop. He was thinking of getting married. When he took up agencies, at the outbreak of the war, he purposely said that he was married, because he thought the single men would be barred, and he would not be able to get the business. He was still unmarried.

The examination was concluded.

RESTAURANT-KEEPER'S BANKRUPTCY.

Before Mr. F. H. Salusbury (Registrar in Bankruptcy) Cyril Edwards, a bankrupt, was examined by Mr. C. F. W. Lloyd, official assignee. The bankrupt stated that he had never been bankrupt before. He carried on a restaurant business at 331 George-street, Sydney. Prior to April last he was manager of the Hotel Sydney, where he received £350 a year, and board and residence. He had previously been manager of the Imperial Hotel, Hobart. His bankruptcy was caused by the strike.

During the strike his business went all to pieces, and after the strike it never came back. The price of the business was £1290—£400 deposit, and the balance payable in four years. He only paid £50 deposit. Later on, he paid £200 and £150. His rent was £20 a week. In July the receipts from the restaurant business were £1000 for July and £1000 for August last. From April 30 to July 31 the takings were £3124, and from August 1 to November 24, £3435. During the strike coal went from 24/ to 48/ a ton. All the fittings were on hire purchase from Marcus Clark, who took possession and put a bailiff in for rent.

MARINE COURT.

(Before Judge Backhouse, with Captains Chudleigh and Simpson as Assessors.)

CHAMPION—DUNMORE COLLISION.

MASTER OF CHAMPION TO SHOW CAUSE.

The court opened an inquiry into the collision which occurred in the early morning of February 12, between the steam tug Champion and the steamer Dunmore. Mr. Tighe (instructed by Messrs. Sparke and Millard, of Newcastle) appeared for the master of the tug Champion, Captain Benjamin Martin Chellew, and all concerned; Mr. R. Broomfield (instructed by Messrs. Cecil Coghlan and Co.) for the master of the steamer Dunmore, Captain Harry Smith Pilling, and her owners; and Mr. H. P. Curtis for the Superintendent of Navigation.

The court, having inquired into the circumstances, came to the following decisions:—(1) The British ships Champion and Dunmore were in collision off Cape Banks, on the coast of New South Wales, on the morning of the 12th ult, when the Champion was out, seeking for a tow, and the Dunmore was on a voyage from Sydney to Shellharbour; (2) by such collision the Dunmore suffered serious damage; (3) both ships were well found, and provided with the necessary life-saving appliances; (4) the weather was dull but fine, the wind moderate, and the sea smooth; (5) the collision was caused by the wrongful acts of the master of the Champion, Benjamin Martin Chellew, in bringing his vessel too close to the Dunmore, when there was no necessity, and in starboarding the helm when the ships were in this position. The Champion was the overtaking vessel, and it was the duty of those on board her to keep clear of the Dunmore; (6) the Court calls upon Benjamin Martin Chellew to show cause, on Wednesday next, at noon, why his certificate as a master of a foreign going ship should not be cancelled or suspended.

QUARTER SESSIONS.

(Before Judge Docker.)

Mr. Herbert Harris (Crown Prosecutor.)

George Harris, who gave his age as 57, pleaded not guilty to breaking entering the shop of Vincent M'Cauley, and stealing four dental plates of false teeth. The evidence showed that the accused was seen to enter a dental establishment in George-street West, by a policeman, and after a few minutes he came out of the shop, and the articles, said to be stolen, were found on him. Accused denied breaking and entering, or stealing, but admitted being on the premises. The jury returned a verdict of guilty. Accused later handed His Honor a statement. The police records showed that accused had 26 previous convictions against him, dating from 1886. His Honor sentenced him to three years' hard labour in Parramatta gaol.

Frederick Burgess, a young well-dressed man, charged with stealing 134oz 7dwt of gold alloy, the property of Matthias Klaffenbock, of Sydney, pleaded not guilty. Mr. J. W. Abigail appeared for accused. The Crown case was that accused was in the employ of Klaffenbock. He occupied a shop at the rear of a house in Womerah-avenue, Darlinghurst, and manufactured metal goods for jewellers. Accused asked for some money on the afternoon of November 13 last, and he was given 8s. Klaffenbock locked up at 6 p.m., and on returning on the morning of the 14th, he found the shop disarranged, a cask rolled away from the wall, disclosing a hole in the wall, and the gold alloy stolen. It was valued at about £220. Accused was seen to go to the shop about 5 a.m., and to roll the cask away from the wall, and enter through the hole. The gold alloy had not been traced. Accused returned to his place of abode about 5.45 a.m. and at 6 a.m. he left, but did not return. In January last he was seen in George-street, and being arrested, denied the theft. Klaffenbock, in reply to Mr. Abigail, said he did not tell the accused to start early on November 14, nor that he should enter by the hole in the wall. He had a safe in the shop, but did not place the alloy in it. He used the alloy for making kewpies, and such trinkets. Accused, in a statement, said Klaffenbock, on November 13, asked him to start early on November 14, to finish a job. He went to the shop at 5 a.m. and found everything in disorder. He entered through the hole in the wall. He was afraid of Klaffenbock's temper, as he was a German, and that he might be accused of the robbery. With this thought in his mind he returned to his lodging, and moved to another part of the city. He denied the theft. Mr. Abigail argued that the evidence was only circumstantial. After an hour's retirement the jury returned a verdict of guilty. In reply to His Honor prisoner said he could give no information as to where the stolen material was. In sentencing the prisoner to two years' hard labour in Bathurst gaol, His Honor said he agreed with the jury's verdict.

Ernest Denison Lane, 61 years of age, pleaded not guilty to a charge of having, on December 11 last, at Balmain, assaulted a girl, 11 years of age. Mr. J. C. J. Ryan appeared for accused. In reply to His Honor, the Crown Prosecutor said he had no evidence to give in corroboration of that of the child. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty, and accused was discharged, his Honor remarking that he agreed with the verdict on the evidence.

Pleas of guilty were entered in the following cases:—Frederick Jackson, stealing; Robert Ward, bigamy; Cecil Robert Sorrell, false pretences; Nicholas Joseph Quirk, escaping from custody; Frank Johnston, breaking and entering; Raphael Finkelstein, burglary and larceny; Alexander Creagh, fraudulent misappropriation; Cecil James Martin, larceny; Rose Margaret Whalan, stealing; Gertrude Maud M'Phee, larceny; Stella Goodridge, stealing (three charges); James Bond, breaking and entering; Joseph M'Auliffe, forging and uttering; Stephen John Barton, bigamy. They were all remanded for sentence.

Augustus Bertie, charged with breaking and entering the shop of Alexander Campbell, at Marrickville, in January, pleaded guilty to stealing. His plea was accepted, and prisoner was remanded for sentence.

CHAPTER XXII.—Continued.

The magistrates looked at their clerk, and the clerk smiled.

"Mr. Mallalieu's theory is correct," he said quietly. "But no magistrate is obliged to admit to bail in felonies and misdemeanours, and in practice bail is never allowed in cases where—as in this case—the charge is one of murder. Such procedure is unheard of."

"Make a precedent, then!" sneered Mallalieu. "Here!—you can have twenty thousand pounds security if you like."

But this offer received no answer, and in five minutes more Mallalieu heard the case adjourned for a week and himself and Cotherstone committed to Norcaster Gaol in the meantime. Without a look at his fellow-prisoner he turned out of the dock and was escorted back to the private room in the Town Hall from which he had been brought.

"Damn 'em for a lot of fools!" he burst out to the superintendent, who had accompanied him. "Do they think I'm going to run away? Likely thing—on a trumped-up charge like this. Here!—how soon shall you be wanting to start for you place?"

The superintendent, who had cherished considerable respect for Mallalieu in the past, and was much upset and very downcast about this sudden change in the Mayor's fortunes, looked at his prisoner and shook his head.

"There's a couple of cars ordered to be ready in half an hour, Mr. Mallalieu," he answered. "One for you, and one for Mr. Cotherstone."

"With armed escorts in both, I suppose!" sneered Mallalieu. "Well, look here—you've time to get me a cup of tea. Slip out and get one o' your men to nip across to the Arms for it—good, strong tea, and a slice or two of bread-and-butter. I can do with it."

He flung half a crown on the table, and the superintendent, suspecting nothing, and willing to oblige a man who had always been friendly and genial towards himself, went out of the room, with no further precautions than the turning of the key in the lock when he had once got outside the door. It never entered his head the prisoner would try to escape, never crossed his mind that Mallalieu had any chance of escaping. He went away along the corridor to find one of his men who could be dispatched to the Highmarket Arms.

But the instant Mallalieu was left alone he started into action. He had not been Mayor of Highmarket for two years, a member of its Corporation for nearly twenty, without knowing all the ins-and-outs of that old Town Hall. And as soon as the superintendent had left he drew from his pocket a key, went across the room to a door which stood in a corner behind a curtain, unlocked it, opened it gently, looked out, passed into a lobby without, relocked the door behind him, and in another instant was stealing quietly down a private staircase that led to an entrance into the quaint old garden at the back of the premises. One further moment of suspense and of looking round, and he was safely in that garden and behind the thick shrubs which ran along one of its high walls. Yet another, and he was out of the garden and in an old-fashioned orchard, which ran, thick with trees, to the very edge of the coppices at the foot of the Shawl. Once in that orchard, screened by its close-branched, low-spreading boughs, leafless though they were at that period of the year, he paused to get his breath, and to chuckle over the success of his scheme. What a mercy, what a blessing, he thought, that they had not searched him on his arrest—that they had delayed that interesting ceremony until his committal. The omission, he knew, had been winked at—purposely—and it had left him with his precious waistcoat, his revolver, and the key that had opened his prison door.

Dusk had fallen over Highmarket before the hearing came to an end, and it was now dark. Mallalieu knew that he had little time to lose—but he also knew that his pursuers would have hard work to catch him. He had laid his plans while the last two witnesses were in the box; his detailed knowledge of the town and its immediate neighbourhood stood him in good stead. Moreover, the geographical situation of the Town Hall was a great help. He had nothing to do but steal out of the orchard into the coppices, make his way cautiously through them into the deeper wood which fringed the Shawl, pass through that to the ridge at the top, and gain the moors. Once on those moors he would strike by devious ways for Norcaster—he knew a safe place in the Lower Town where he could be hidden for a month, three months, six months, without fear of discovery, and from whence he could get away by ship.

All was quiet as he passed through a gap in the orchard hedge and stole into the coppices. He kept stealthily but swiftly along through the pine and fir until he came to the wood which covered the higher part of the Shawl. The trees were much thicker there, the brakes and bushes were thicker, and the darkness was greater. He was obliged to move at a slower pace—and suddenly he heard men's voices on the lower slopes beneath him. He paused, then just as suddenly as he had heard the voices, he felt a hand, firm, steady, sinewy, fasten on his wrist and stay there.

CHAPTER XXIII.

COMFORTABLE CAPTIVITY.

The tightening of that sinewy grip on Mallalieu's wrist so startled him that it was only by a great effort that he restrained himself from crying out and from breaking into one of his fits of trembling. This sudden arrest was all the more disturbing to his mental composure because for the moment, he could not see to whom the hand belonged. But as he twisted round he became aware of a tall, thin shape at his elbow, the next instant a whisper stole to his ear.

"H'sh! Be careful!—there's men down there on the path!—they're very like after you" said the voice. "Wait here a minute!"

"Who are you?" demanded Mallalieu hoarsely. He was endeavouring to free his wrist, but the steel-like fingers clung. "Let go my hand!" he said. "D'ye hear?—let it go."

"Wait!" said the voice. "It's for your own good. It's me—Miss Pett. I saw you—against that patch of light between the trees there—I knew your big figure. You've got away, of course. Well, you'll not get much further if you don't trust to me. Wait till we hear which way them fellows go."

Mallalieu resigned himself. As his eyes grew more accustomed to the gloom of the wood, he made out that Miss Pett was standing just within an opening in the trees; presently, as the voices beneath them became fainter, she drew him into it.

"This way!" she whispered. "Come close behind me—the house is close by."

"No," protested Mallalieu angrily. "None of your houses. Here, I want to be on the moors. What do you want—to keep your tongue still?"

Miss Pett paused and edged her thin figure close to Mallalieu's bulky one.

"It'll not be a question of my tongue if you once go out o' this wood," she said. "They'll search those moors first thing. Don't be a fool—it'll be known all over the town by now. Come with me and I'll put you where all the police in the country can't find you. But, of course, do as you like—only, I'm warning you. You haven't a cat's chance if you set foot on that moor. Lord bless you, man—don't they know that there's only two places you could make for—Norcaster and Hexendale? Is there any way to either of 'em except across the moors? Come on, now—be sensible."

"Go on, then!" growled Mallalieu. Wholly suspicious by nature, he was wondering why this she-dragon, as he had so often called her, should be at all desirous of sheltering him. Already he suspected her of some design, some trick—and in the darkness he clapped his hand on the hip-pocket in which he had placed his revolver. That was safe enough—and again he thanked his stars that the police had not searched him. But however well he might be armed, he was for the time being in Miss Pett's power—he knew very well that if he tried to slip away Miss Pett had only to utter one shrill cry to attract attention. And so, much as he desired the freedom of the moors, he allowed himself to be taken captive by this gaoler, who promised eventual liberty.

Miss Pett waited in the thickness of the trees until the voices at the foot of the Shawl became faint and far-off; she herself knew well enough that they were not the voices of men who were searching for Mallalieu, but of country folk who had been into the town and were now returning home by the lower path in the wood. But it suited her purposes to create a spirit of impending danger in the Mayor, and so she kept him there, her hand still on his arm, until the last sound died away. And while she thus held him, Mallalieu, who had often observed Miss Pett in her peregrinations through the Market Place, and had been accustomed to speaking of her as a thread-paper, or as Mother Skin-and-Bones, because of her phenomenal thinness, wondered how it was that a woman of such extraordinary attenuation should possess such powerful fingers—her grip on his wrist was like that of a vice. And somehow, in a fashion for which he could not account, especially in the disturbed and anxious state of his mind, he became aware that here in this strange woman was some mental force which was superior to and was already dominating his own, and for a moment he was tempted to shake the steel-like fingers off and make a dash for the moorlands.

ON THE LAND.

TRANSPORT OF STOCK.

Although complaints have not been as numerous and serious of late as in the past, those with any knowledge of existing conditions know there is much room for improvement in the handling of travelling stock on our railways. This is the more noticeable, as we shape badly in this respect in comparison with railway methods in Queensland, a fact that we have had to admit in the past. Not only is the method of loading, particularly of sheep, much more effective and speedier, but the whole business receives more attention. The Queensland authorities recognise, as authorities in any country depending mainly upon the live stock industry should recognise, the importance of catering to the needs of that industry. Stock trains are run on schedule time at a quick rate, and rank with mail trains. Other goods traffic has to make way. Here, as a rule, the stock train seems to count last, or did until very recently; it is shoved aside to make way for other trains and the stock left without water or feed for hours. This, in addition to the knocking about they receive when travelling from careless driving and shunting, apart from the torture involved, seriously depreciates their value. Granting that there is a welcome improvement in our railway methods during the last few months we can still learn something from Queensland. For instance, some little time ago there was a keen demand for sheep at good prices in the south-west of that State. A leading dealer thereupon made heavy purchases in the more northerly districts, and was confronted with the task of shifting the sheep from Longreach to Goondiwindi and Dirranbandi. The mileage was about 1108 and 1240 respectively. Special stock trains were put on and run through with such expedition, allowing for watering and feeding, that something like 200,000 sheep were delivered with practically no loss. The total deaths amounted to a few head. This was a fine performance. But it is typical of the northern methods, which show a true appreciation of the value of the pastoral industry.

A southern pastoralist who recently visited the works of the Queensland Meat Export and Agency Company, Ltd., at Townsville, which has a daily capacity of 800 head of cattle, was astonished at the condition of some cattle which had been brought in from the Lower Georgina country. They had travelled by road for over 200 miles, and then some 600 miles by rail, and he never saw better cattle. He saw a couple killed, and, to use his own expression, "they were just covered with lumps of fat." The day this gentleman was at the works, 525 head of cattle were put through, and by half-past two in the afternoon they were all killed, treated, and canned and on the shelves, and two hours later the works had been cleaned up and finished for the day. To the meat expert trade efficient and rapid handling of stock on the railways is of the utmost value, just as it is to the local trade, and evidently all parties in the north are aiming at a maximum of efficiency in the handling of stock. This is of moment to us, as a matter which directly affects the success and returns of the pastoral industry, which are of particular moment at a time when the country has to carry an immense debt. We cannot overlook the fact that Queensland makes available for the pastoralist immense areas of beautiful country at a low rental, against which we cannot hope to compete. Despite the risk of long droughts—which is certainly a greater risk than with most of our country, but the effects of which are being safeguarded against to a large extent by increasing attention to water conservation—it is an attractive proposition, and we cannot afford to strengthen it by failing to put our railway methods of handling stock on as good, or better, footing than the standard of the northern State.

BOYS AND AGRICULTURE.

Yesterday boys of the Newtown Public School paid a visit to Challis House and viewed with considerable interest Grenfell's exhibits of primary products. This wakening of the juvenile mind to matters relating to agriculture is deserving of considerably more attention than is given to it at the present time. Speaking with regard to this matter, Mr. J. C. McCallum, who lectured to the boys at several schools, under the auspices of the Primary Industries League, said that he was pleasantly surprised at the intense interest shown by the boys in the subject. The suggestion, he said, which had been made by the headmaster of the Paddington school that these demonstrations and lectures should become a permanent feature of the league's work was a good one, and he hoped the governing council would see its way clear to continue with such demonstrations and lectures should it be at all possible.

FRUIT PACKING.

The Department of Agriculture has arranged for the following demonstrations:—

March 5, 6, 7, a fruit-packing demonstration by the assistant fruit expert, Mr. W. le Gay Brereton, to be held at Glen Innes Experiment Farm.

March 9, a similar demonstration at Young, under the auspices of the local branch of the Agricultural Bureau.

THE LAMBING.

BERRIGAN.—The stock inspector of the Corowa Pastures Protection Board reports that the lambing last season was 76 per cent., and the wool clip returns showed an average of 8lb 10oz per sheep and 2lb 7oz per lamb.

STOCK TICK PROSECUTION.

GOULBURN.—An interesting case—the first of the kind in the State—was heard before the police magistrate (Mr. Arnott), when Walter Tuchin was charged, under the Stock Tick Act, with selling at Goulburn certain sheep which he knew to be infected. Mr. Thomas, instructed by Mr. Dawson, stock inspector, appeared for the Minister, and Mr. A. M. Betts for the defendant. Defendant was fined £5, with £4/4/ professional costs, £2/1/ witnesses' expenses, and 11/ court costs, in default one month.

GRASSHOPPER PLAGUE.

SINGLETON.—The town has been visited by a plague of grasshoppers. At times they flew high in such dense clouds that they cast shadows on the ground, and horses refused to face the swarms of insects. At Redbournberry they have been particularly thick, and grass, lucerne, and other growths have suffered considerably. The starlings have had such a surfeit of grasshopper diet that many of the birds are reported as lying dead or sick along the roads and in the fields, and fowls have also died from the same cause.

COROWA DISTRICT FARMERS.

LOCKHART.—The Corowa District Farmers' Council, at its annual meeting, elected Mr. M. Kilpatrick, of Oaklands, president. Several important resolutions were passed, including a motion in favour of compulsory sheep-dipping. The War Time Profits Act was severely condemned, and it was declared that it was almost impossible for a man who went in for mixed farming to make his return to three solicitors, and they each and all declared they could not make it out. The council viewed with alarm the great number of clearing sales now being held, and it was attributed to the want of a guard to farmers concerning the future, and the price for wheat on the lines adopted by other countries.

DAIRYING.

CASINO.—The half-yearly meeting of the Casino Co-operative Dairy Company was held yesterday. The report submitted showed that for the past half year the butter produced amounted to 335 tons, 11cwt., a decrease of 126 tons, as compared with the corresponding period the previous year. The average price realised was 16.9d per lb.

SINGLETON.—The annual report of Singleton Central Co-operate Dairy Co., Ltd., shows the output for the year was 1,636,807 lbs., or 730 tons 14cwt 1qr 11lb, and the milk treated for the Sydney trade totalled 246,215 gallons. The turnover for the year was £127,531 9s 9d.

FIXING MEAT PRICES.

ARMIDALE.—At a meeting of the Armidale Branch of the Graziers' Association the following motion was carried:—"That this body enter an emphatic protest against the projected action of the Federal Government in fixing the price of beef and mutton." It was contended that in many instances it would seriously affect many who had lately purchased stock.

CROWN LANDS.

PARKES.—Several Crown land sales have been listed at the local Crown land office during the past month, but have attracted little or no attention from the public. Apparently the upset prices have been fixed altogether too high.

FARM MANAGER RETIRES.

BATHURST.—Mr. R. W. Peacock, manager of the State Experiment Farm, having completed 20 years' service with the department, has retired from office, being succeeded by Mr. W. R. Mays, formerly a dux at Hawkesbury College, and till recently inspector for the department, with his headquarters at Orange. Mr. Peacock has been manager of the Bathurst farm for 16½ years, during which time important improvements have been made.

MOSS VALE SHOW.

MOSS VALE.—His Excellency the Governor, Sir Walter Davidson, has accepted an invitation to open the show officially on Friday next.

SHOW AT BLACKTOWN.

BLACKTOWN.—The Blacktown Agricultural Bureau has unanimously resolved to fix Friday and Saturday, May 3 and 4, as the dates for the first agricultural exhibition at Blacktown. The schedule will provide for 14 sections, 270 classes, and £100 in prize money. In addition to this, numerous non-competitive exhibits have been promised. Cattle, pigs, and dressed poultry will be exhibited on the second day. The bureau also unanimously resolved to again send a competitive district exhibit to the Hawkesbury Show on May 9, at Clarendon.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

TRANSPORT OF WHEAT.

W.G.—You would require to obtain a permit from the State Wheat Office before the railways will carry the wheat within 100 miles of Sydney.

LIQUOR PROSECUTIONS.

Before Mr. Macfarlane, S.M., at the Central Police Court, yesterday, Frederick Edwin Herbert, licensee of the Gresham Hotel, York and Druitt streets, was proceeded against for having failed to keep closed to the public every bar of the premises at 9.45 p.m., on February 12. Mr. M'Intosh appeared for the defendant, who pleaded not guilty. For the defence it was stated that the barmaid, in the absence of the licensee, served a man, who came to the hotel with a suit case, and demanded a drink, as a bona fide traveller. The man stayed at the hotel that night. The magistrate said that as he was not quite clear upon a point which was raised by Mr. M'Intosh, as to the liability of a licensee, he would reserve his decision until the 11th instant.

William Davies, of the Corso, Manly, was charged with having been found drinking, on February 12, at the Gresham Hotel, after 9 p.m. He pleaded guilty, and was fined £1, with 6s costs, in default seven days' imprisonment.

Myer Levy, licensee of the Cosmopolitan Hotel, Erskine street, was charged with being the licensee of premises on which persons were found at a prohibited time, namely Sunday morning. James Lyne and Joseph Hetherington were charged with having been found on the premises. Mr. Carroll appeared for the three defendants. For the defence it was stated that the two men, who were found on the premises had come to the hotel by arrangement, to see about getting clerks for wharf labourers. They were to meet a stevedore. With the remark that the licensee had done a risky thing in allowing men to come to the hotel on Sunday, the magistrate dismissed the three charges.

Mr. F. G. Adrian, S.M., heard evidence in the case of Mamie Palmer, or Hamilton, a domestic, who was charged with selling liquor without a license, on Sunday, in the Domain. According to the police evidence, three bottles of beer were sold. A fine of £30 was imposed, in default three months' imprisonment with hard labour.

NO-CONSCRIPTION FINANCE.

The balance-sheet of the Australian Labour party, New South Wales branch, in connection with the two conscription referendums, shows a debt of £24 16s 3d. The campaigns cost the committee £8115 8s 7d.

OLD NEWINGTONIANS.

The annual meeting of the Old Newingtonians' Union was held at Newington College on Friday, with the retiring president, Mr. R. Cowlishaw, in the chair. The following officers were elected:—President, Mr. P. B. Colquhoun, M.L.A.; vice-presidents, Messrs. R. Cowlishaw, Milton S. Love, S. W. Moore, W. E. V. Robson, M.L.A., A. J. Phillips, R. A. Warden; council, Messrs. J. S. Abbott, F. Lawes, W. L. Moore, J. S. Thomson, C. R. Wiley, W. C. Wilson; hon. treasurer, Mr. E. S. Kelynack; joint hon. secretaries, Messrs. O. A. Parker and W. A. Prescott.

The retiring president referred in his address to the scheme promoted, and still being carried out, to send a box of comforts to each old boy at the front. Letters were read from some of the recipients expressing their appreciation of these unexpected gifts.

GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In the competition going on between the outside firms the printing trade has for a long time been in anything but a healthy state. By looking at imprints one can see how a job goes the round of the city. Every printer has a go at it until it is not worth having, and that is how the price of printing is brought down to such a low ebb. Business is business, and I suppose if Mr. Board can get his work done cheaper for his department he will, but he will find in doing so he is not encouraging a healthy state of trade, and the printing trade is a very big concern for him to dabble in. For years it has been the effort of many to improve this state of affairs in the trade—increase the prices so as to make it better for the master printers, who are always cutting under one another in a ridiculous fashion, and I am sorry that a gentleman of Mr. Board's experience cannot see through it. The mental and manual work of a good compositor can never be overpaid. Mr. Gullick is there to make the department pay, and must charge accordingly. Outside printers are not called upon to work for nothing, and I venture to believe they get "fat" jobs from the Government occasionally. Why not all work together for the general good? Why do not outside printers make more concessions to their employees, and thus foment a better feeling between employer and employee? The Government Printing Office is a concern of which those men who have worked it up to such perfection may honestly feel proud, for its systematic management will compare favourably with any outside office in the world. We pay our members of Parliament according to their own estimate of their worth, £500 a year, for about four months' work. What do we pay those men who build up these concerns, and who are working hard year in, year out? Does Mr. Board know?

I am, etc., H. J.

LIVING WAGE FOR RETURNED SOLDIERS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I would be favoured if you can find space regarding the above subject, as dealt with by the Commonwealth Government, who, at the present time, are employing some hundreds of returned soldiers as temporary clerks in their various offices. The positions are non-progressive, and the maximum remuneration, viz., 10s per day, is far from being a living wage (at the present high cost of commodities) for a married man with two or three children. The State Government's rate of pay is 12s 6d per day for men filling similar positions, and it is hard to understand the Commonwealth Government's attitude in not falling into line with the State by paying a living wage to men who have done their bit and whose welfare they are undoubtedly responsible for.

Recently the Commonwealth Public Service Act was amended, making the age limit 51, to allow of returned soldiers seeking permanent positions in the services, and the authorities are now calling for applications from returned men to sit for an examination for positions of fifth-class clerk at a commencing salary of £138 p.a., plus £18 p.a. allowance, making actual salary of £156 p.a., with annual increments of £12 up to £210 p.a. Thus, a successful applicant at the age of 45, after six years' service (being then 51 years of age), would be in receipt of the munificent salary of £210 p.a., or £4 0s 6d per week. Mr. Hughes and other Federal Ministers have, on numerous occasions, appealed to private employers regarding the subject matter, but are apparently blind to the conditions existing in their own departments. If "a labourer is worthy of his hire," then what about a returned soldier?

I am, etc., RUSSELLS TOP.

JAPAN'S PART.

Two items of news in our cablegrams this morning must be read together, if the relation of Japan to Russia is to be understood at the present extraordinary juncture. The first item comes from the German War Office to the effect that a Russo-German peace treaty has been signed, and that all military movements to Great Russia have ceased. The second item conveys the information that Japanese and Chinese troops have entered Siberia, though it is declared that the former are merely guarding the railway near Harbin. This is information from the Japanese Embassy in Petrograd, and must, therefore, be accepted as authentic; but its value will depend upon developments in the immediate future as far as Japan's actual commitments are concerned. On that point little is being allowed to reach the outside world. What we know, however, warrants the belief that Japan is preparing to enter the war on the military side with the same thoroughness that the United States has shown, and for similar reasons. Germany is the world's enemy. A peace has been forced upon Russia which apparently involves the surrender of the trans-Caucasian districts of Batoum, Kars, and Karaghan with their wealth of oil and minerals; and their strategic value in this war is enormous. It means that for the present, at any rate, Russia is like a stranded whale with Germany voraciously eager to begin cutting it up. We may say that the true Russia has not yet spoken or acted. Ninety millions of peasants have to be taken into account, and the Russian Church is behind them. Germany, with all her strength and resources required on the Western front, must now concentrate as far as possible upon the East; and this will mean not only keeping down the Slav populations over an immense area but organising them for food-raising and war industry. But the actual possession of Russian centres of supply, and the added prestige which the reported treaty will give the military party in Germany itself, are no mean gains, whatever the future may threaten in new complications and impossible tasks. For the moment Germany's gigantic game of bluff promises to be successful; and the effects of its advertised fruits must be felt far and wide. Japan consequently cannot afford to take any risks with Siberia. The cry "Berlin to Tokio" does not reach her as mere pretence—as part of an alleged programme of victory which can never be carried out. She knows very well that Boloism may prove as great a danger in Siberia as in France and Italy; and German influence through Bolshevik channels may easily reach to Vladivostock with its piers and warehouses filled with munitions of war supplied by herself and the United States. But the whole position is curiously complicated by the fact that the Allies cannot ignore Russia, even with Germany claiming that a peace treaty has been signed, and that whole provinces have been taken from her. Rather is it imperative that the real Russia shall be kept in mind and that nothing shall be attempted to-day which may be used to antagonise the Slav millions to-morrow when victory has been won on the West and Germany has to accept as truth the hopelessness of world empire.

Japan's experience of Germany goes back a quarter of a century, and she does not forget what happened when the fruits of the war with China were taken from her. The exact terms of the arrogant demands upon Japan were repeated by the latter after the outbreak of war in 1914, when Kiao Chao was ordered to be evacuated and was finally forced from Germany's grasp. Kiao Chao was taken from China in 1897. Russia demanded and received Port Arthur, and Great Britain was given Wei-hai-wei. But then and since German intrigue has been constant, involving Japan in trouble first on one side with Russia and on the other with the United States. The war with Russia came in 1904 largely through this pressure; and it was called "an officers' war" by the Russian people. They never believed in it, but they could see that for some reason the Court was determined to obtain outlets in the Pacific. German suggestions and influence were working then; and when Russia was defeated, and had to give up Port Arthur and much beside in Manchuria, Germany turned her evil face upon America. Price Collier in one of his books, published three or four years before the present war, notes several conversations with leading Japanese on the prospect of war with the United States. They were emphatic in their agreement that Germany was making the trouble, and they declared there would be no war. Japan realised too well where her true interests lay. This has been borne out by the success of Count Ishii's mission to Washington, which has resulted in an agreement that is apparently quite satisfactory to the United States. Count Ishii then offered the most solemn assurances of his country's bona fides, and in a speech at Washington's grave declared that Japan was prepared to give to the uttermost in this war with Germany. Germany at first counted upon Japanese neutrality, as she did upon British abstention when the question of England's course was discussed in the closing days of July, 1914. But as soon as Great Britain called upon Japan to fulfil her treaty engagements—though the Government at Tokio, according to Viscount Motono, hoped that the war would not affect the Far East—she promptly responded with her fleet. Ever since she has been a combatant Ally on the naval side; and now that Germany has broken Russia in Europe and threatens Siberia we find Japan equally ready to throw her armies into the fray. She is determined not to have Germany as neighbour or dominant in Asia, and will fight to the last ditch to prevent any extension of the surrender in Western Russia to Siberia. But this raises several questions at once which can only be discussed with the progress of events. Everything must depend upon the arbitrament of battle on the Western front. Yet when Germany is hammered into reason there, whether this year or next year or in three years' time, the fate of Russia may still be in the balance. If the true Russia soon gains control everything will come right and Japan may speedily depart; but if the Slavs require a long time to recover, Japan may have her hands full in Siberia and Manchuria for a generation.

THE WHEAT POSITION.

A deputation of wheatgrowers representative of the grain-producing areas of the Commonwealth is to wait upon the Prime Minister to-morrow with the view of stating their grievances. Doubtless they will receive from Mr. Hughes that sympathetic consideration that they so richly deserve. Since the war broke out there is no section of the community that has done its duty to the Allies more conscientiously than the wheatgrowers of this continent. Aided by the seasons they have produced record crops. They have turned up new land, though they scarce knew what they were going to do with their grain when they got it in the bags. Indeed, for a time it was doubtful whether they would even get bags to render it transportable under our antiquated system of handling. Despite many irritations, despite a certain amount of patent bungling on the part of the committees which were given charge of the selling operations, notwithstanding many delays in securing payment, some of which at least seemed to be preventable, the grower has gone on doing his best, and has done so with no more grumbling than over-strained human nature made inevitable. But can this patient resignation last much longer? Before long the plough will once more have to turn over the wheat lands in preparation for the coming seeding. Meanwhile the war has seriously disturbed the labour market. Many a farmer and his sons have themselves gone to the front, and skilled labour these days is scarcely obtainable at all. Besides, farmers cannot grow wheat unless they can find a market. The Commonwealth Government has agreed to a moderate, and farmers say a totally inadequate, guarantee. They point out that practically every element in the cost of production has gone up, and what might have paid them, or at least have kept the wolf from the door under old conditions, is quite out of the question in these days of ever-rising costs. Besides it is well recognised by those in the industry that wheat-growing in Australia is precarious to this extent that no farmer can rely upon obtaining more than two crops out of three. A guaranteed price that fails to take this into consideration fails to realise a fundamental factor in the industry.

There seems to be no immediate hope of our getting any large proportion of our surplus wheat away for some time to come. This makes it essential that adequate steps should be taken to preserve the wheat from deterioration during its long storage. The silos that are being constructed with feverish haste are an earnest that something will be done to preserve the wheat from the mouse pest, and the statement of the visiting English professor reassures us that the weevil pest may be kept within due bounds if only proper steps be taken. The only point remaining is for the Government to consider ways and means, and coupled with this aspect of the problem is a consideration of whether it is wise for us to go on accumulating grain against a future, and some think a problematical, demand. We believe, however, that whatever happens wheat will prove an excellent asset, and that it may even prove the salvation of millions of lives in Europe, when the grim advent of famine is not the least of the terrors of a lengthened war. If the Government would only push on with its shipbuilding programme some substantial relief might be experienced by way of diminishing stocks, but the longer the delays experienced the more slowly will our surplus grain make its way to those countries where it is most needed. It remains for Mr. Hughes to point a way out. He may be able to do something with the British Government, or he may be able to find other customers. Whatever he does he should see to it that the wheatgrowers of the Commonwealth receive no discouragement that reasonably can be avoided.

PERSONAL.

LABOUR PARTY ORGANISER.

At the last meeting of the executive of the Australian Labour party, held in Sydney, Mr. Arthur Rae was appointed general organiser.

PUBLIC SERVICE.

DEPARTMENTAL METHODS CRITICISED.

Giving evidence before the Public Service Commissioner (Mr. G. Mason Allard) yesterday, Arthur Jas. Hanson, of the Lawrence and Hanson Electrical Co., said there was a general impression in the local business world that the Commission had been appointed only to hear complaints. He was sure that many business men would be glad to express their opinions as to how departmental methods might be improved to the advantage both of the Government and the trade.

The Commissioner made it clear that he would welcome any suggestions from experienced men regarding Government methods and the question of improvement.

Witness said he thought the terms and conditions under which tenders were called by the Stores Supplies Department might be improved. He thought that clause 6 operated harshly. This provided for the vendor accepting responsibility for goods in transit. The contract provided for the delivery of goods within a radius of six miles from the G.P.O. Country orders, however, were delivered at the Darling Harbour railway station, but the contractor was held responsible until the goods arrived at their actual destination. Witness complained also of the arbitrary nature of clause 14, which provided that the conditions should not be waived in any circumstances. Witness handed in ten different invoice forms in use by several departments and, in urging the need for one standard form, he said his firm had had to buy an extended typewriting machine to enable the necessary adjustments to be made. Witness further complained of the different departmental practices in regard to payment and by which the difficulty of identifying transactions was aggravated.

Adolphus Berckelman, executive member of the Stores Supply Department, replying in the course of evidence to statements by the Government Printer, denied, as far as his experience went, that there had been any interference in the matter of requisitions, and said it had always been recognised that the Government Printer should know best what met his requirements; the committee, however, saw that the purchase of an article was properly made. The Government Printer had complained of being called upon to pay, during 1916-17 claims, amounting to £7622, incurred prior to the year. If he had paid the Stores Supply Department during 1915-16 the £10,422 which was due to the department, instead of there being a debit balance on 1916-16 there would have been a credit balance of over £3000. The Government Printer stated that he had practically no voice in connection with the indenting of material. Witness did not know what the officer meant. The only indents for Government Printing Office supplies which the Stores Supply department dealt with were those which the Government Printer himself referred to them for attention. Witness supplied detailed statements and specific dates, covering 25 items, in reply to statements as to delay in supply of goods by the Department to the Water Conservation and Irrigation Commission.

The secretary of the Lawrence and Hanson Electrical Co. (Mr. Kaleski) affirmed that his company had had to devise an ingenious system of bookkeeping in order to keep track of the payment of Government accounts because of the difficulty, under the method obtaining, of identifying transactions, and said they had been compelled to write off a large sum for which payments could not be placed.

Robert Rix, storekeeper at the Government Printing Office, giving evidence in regard to the supply of pasteboards by John Sands, Ltd., said they were refused because they were not up to standard in quality and colour. The contract price was 7/6 per gross. In reply to the Commissioner, witness said he did not consider that John Sands had done everything possible to fulfil the contract. As the pasteboard was urgently needed, quotations were obtained, and three separate lots were bought from different firms, the lowest price being 14/ per gross. Witness pointed out that the price of such material had gone up. While this pasteboard was bought from Messrs. Geo. Morgan and Co. on May 5 at 14/ per gross, that firm had entered into a contract to supply pasteboard from July 1 at 9/11 per gross.

The Commission will sit again this morning at 10.30.

RETURNING SOLDIERS

KITCHENER FLAG FUND.

Some little time ago Mr. P. T. Tewksbury, who is well known in Victorian mining circles, took an Australian flag to England, and on it secured, amongst others, the autographs of the following well-known personages:—The late Earl Kitchener, the Duke of Devonshire, Rudyard Kipling, General Birdwood, the Archbishop of Canterbury, General Joffre, General Sir Douglas Haig, Sir William Robertson, and Admiral Jellicoe. This flag is now to be raffled in New South Wales, Victoria, and South Australia.

Yesterday afternoon the Lord Mayor of Sydney (Alderman Joynton Smith) formally initiated the movement on the first floor of Messrs. David Jones and Co.'s premises. He bought the first book of tickets, and was subsequently entertained by the hon. director of the New South Wales Committee (Mr. S. S. Cohen). In all there are prizes in cash to the value of £3601, and these have been provided by business and professional men. The first prize is the autographed flag, or, if the winner prefers, £2100 in cash. The whole of the money raised in this State by the sale of tickets will go to help the returned blind and incapacitated soldiers and sailors. Depots have now been opened in all parts of the city. The Sydney committee is as follows:—Chairman, Mr. J. C. Watson; hon. director, Mr. S. S. Cohen; hon. treasurers, Messrs. Denison Miller and Richard Teece; and hon. secretary, Mr. Percy Hunter. The organiser is Mr. John M. Giles, and a strong executive has also been formed to carry out the details.

WAR WORK IN AMERICA.

ADELAIDE, Monday.

Cablegrams have been received from Mr. Crawford Vaughan, formerly Premier of South Australia, who went to America to deliver addresses on war subjects. He states he had an interview with President Wilson, and Mr. Vaughan asks the National party and his electors to free him temporarily so that he may remain "on vital work in the United States."

THE "SYDNEY MAIL."

This week's "Mail" is a very fine issue, the illustrations being clear and well-varied, and the articles interesting and full of information. Prominence is given the war loan campaign, and some of the posters and lantern slides that are being used to stimulate public interest in the loan are reproduced. The Manly carnival, for charitable and patriotic purposes, and the police and firemen's hospital carnival are pictorially dealt with, and there is a photograph of the annual meeting of the Benevolent Society of New South Wales. The display in Sydney of primary products from the Grenfell district is illustrated, the pictures showing groups of children interested in the waggon which visited several of the city school grounds. A very interesting article gives personal details of some of the great business men whose assistance has been requisitioned by Mr. Lloyd George in the prosecution of the war. An illustrated article tells something of the work of the New South Wales grass and fodder expert, and emphasises the necessity for the judicious handling of our rich pasture lands, and the avoidance of overstocking and bad methods. There are many portraits of distinguished Australian soldiers, and a fine half-page picture of the steamer Matunga, taken in a New Guinea harbour prior to her fatal encounter with the German raider Wolf.

SHIPBUILDING.

WALSH ISLAND PLANT.

STATE GOVERNMENT'S TERMS.

NEWCASTLE, Monday.

It was ascertained to-day from a very reliable source that the total value of the plant and fittings and buildings at Walsh Island amounts to £530,000. The State Government is prepared to lease the island to the Commonwealth for a period of five years, with the option of purchase during or at the end of that time, for six per cent. per annum on the value of the plant and buildings, plus the same rate on the value of the land, which has not yet been determined. The State Government is also willing to let the Commonwealth Government have the option of purchase of all the stock on hand.

These are the same terms that were arrived at between the State Government and the Broken Hill Proprietary Company before the transfer of the property was blocked by Mr. Hughes.

The Federal Minister for Works and Railways, Mr. Watt, is expected to arrive from Victoria to-morrow, and it is hoped by Ministers that some settlement will follow.

MR. BALL CONDEMNS DELAYS.

NEWCASTLE, Monday.

Mr. Ball, Minister for Works, speaking at the luncheon at the Walsh Island Employees' Picnic, at Speer's Point, to-day, said that Walsh Island was established four or five years ago, the main object being to build ships. It had been admitted that the lay-out was the best in the Commonwealth for that purpose. The question of shipbuilding was one of paramount importance. As Minister for Works he had hoped that something would have been done long before this. They were told in the first place that the object of the Federal Government was to build composite vessels of about 2000 tons. Mr. Cutler had designed plans for a vessel, and afterwards the Federal Government said that it desired standardised vessels built, and increased the size to 5000 tons. Walsh Island could do better than any other part of the Commonwealth in building ships. At the present moment the State Government was anxious to arrive at an arrangement whereby the Federal Government would either go on with the work or allow the State Government to proceed so that there should not be any further delay. There might be some difficulty in obtaining materials, but he thought they could build at least a limited number of vessels, they were in the fortunate position of possessing steel works in Newcastle where the material could be obtained to build the ships.

AGREEMENT WITH UNIONS.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Representatives of the Victorian section of the Interstate Shipbuilding Conference discussed with the Prime Minister, Mr. Hughes, on Friday, the selection of chairmen for the minor tribunals and other matters arising out of the agreement. The delegates undertook to get into touch with unions in the various States. The broad details of the scheme will be dealt with by the Federal tribunal, of which a Judge of the Supreme Court will be chairman. The Electrical Trades Union has signed the agreement.

SMALL ARMS FACTORY.

NO SETTLEMENT YET REACHED.

LITHGOW, Monday.

Though there have been a few moves by the unions concerned, the position in regard to the trouble at the small arms factory remains practically unchanged. There have been several more suspensions, whilst others have resumed, but the total unemployed is still exactly a thousand. The men who were being trained as barrel-setters were called out by the union on Friday night, but a couple of returned soldiers have taken their places. These state that they will take a good deal of shifting. Many of the employees are indignant because of deductions made by the management for Christmas holidays for which they were paid, also for overalls not returned. In regard to the former it appears that a full year must be worked before Christmas pay can be granted. Some, however, state that they intend to appeal to the Court, as they consider that there has been a breach of the award. About 100 employees have finally severed their connection with the factory. The question of who will or who will not be re-employed when a general resumption takes place is already creating a good deal of interest. It is officially stated that preference, all other things being equal, will be strictly given to returned soldiers. It is also expected that single eligibles will not be re-engaged. A deputation from the employees interviewed Senator Pearce, Minister for Defence, in Melbourne, to-day, but negotiations were not completed.

MATUNGA'S CREW.

Burns, Philp, and Company, Limited, received a cable from their London office yesterday morning, advising that up to the present efforts to locate the passengers and crew of the steamer Matunga, with the exception of Mrs. A. Mackenzie, the stewardess, had failed. The cable added that the High Commissioner, Mr. Fisher, was assisting in the task, and that directly any news was heard, the Sydney office would be advised.

FEDERAL PARLIAMENT.

EARLY ASSEMBLY URGED.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Several members of the Nationalist party are anxious for the Federal Parliament to be called together at once to discuss some important questions prior to the departure of Ministers to the Imperial Conference. In the ordinary course of events Parliament will not meet until early in April. As the result of a meeting held at the House of Representatives to-day the following letter was forwarded to the Prime Minister (Mr. Hughes):—

"The following members of the House of Representatives now in Melbourne strongly urge that in view of the projected early departure of Ministers to London, Parliament should be called together forthwith to consider the recruiting scheme, defence administration, and the present financial situation."

The letter was signed by Sir William Irvine, and Messrs. Boyd, Fowler, Gregory, Leckie, M'Williams, Sampson, and Sinclair. It was sent to Mr. Hughes this afternoon, but when questioned after the meeting of the Cabinet, which rose at about 6 o'clock, Mr. Hughes said that he had not received it, and he declined to answer any questions in regard to it.

VIOLENT SEAS.

DAMAGE IN NEW ZEALAND.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Monday.

Advices from Napier state that one of the heaviest seas ever experienced is running there at present. Considerable damage has been done to various works at Port Ahuriri, and several vessels have been damaged. Waihi also reports a tremendous surf, which has already destroyed ten cottages.

LITHGOW HOUSING.

It was stated yesterday by the Premier that in September last, on behalf of the State Housing Board, an offer was made to the Federal Government to construct model workmen's dwellings at Lithgow, with no charge to the Commonwealth beyond the actual cost of work, with a sufficient sum to cover architectural and supervision expenses. This offer was renewed on February 7, when the adverse report concerning housing conditions at Lithgow was made public.

The Commonwealth Minister for Works and Railways now writes to Mr. Fitzgerald:—"The matter has now been considered by the Cabinet, and I am able to give you our decision. It has been determined that the provision of the housing accommodation decided upon shall be made by the Works and Railways Department. In all probability this will be done by contract. We have also decided that we will sell on suitable terms of repayment to employees of the Small Arms Factory. In these circumstances it will not be necessary to utilise the services of the State organisation, as suggested by you."

"MISSING" MAIL BAGS.

FOUND AT G.P.O.

The supposed disappearance of four mail bags while in transit from Sydney to Hornsby on Saturday was cleared up yesterday morning, when it was discovered by detectives that the bags had not been despatched, and were still safe and intact in the mail-room at the G.P.O. The reason why the bags were not despatched from the post-office, as they should have been, however, could not "officially" be explained.

LORD MAYOR'S FUND.

A STRIKING APPEAL.

Mrs. E. Mackinnon, whose splendid services as a war-worker, particularly in connection with the Red Cross Society, have made her name well known throughout the State, has sent to the committee of the Lord Mayor's Patriotic Fund a fine testimony to the good work that is being carried on. The committee asks that those who read Mrs. Mackinnon's remarks will remember that the special appeal closes this week on Thursday next, and that there is an urgent need for money.

"If one voice can add anything to the volume of praise already forthcoming, or strengthen the appeal on behalf of the Lord Mayor's Fund, in any way," says Mrs. Mackinnon, "I am only too glad to testify to the excellent way in which the fund is administered, and to say that whatever cases we have sent up there directly, or passed on to others who are more closely in touch with the wants of dependents, have been treated with courtesy and sympathy, and helped wherever conditions legitimately within its scope called for aid. Surely there is no knowledge which would bring greater comfort to the men who have left their wives and families amongst us than to know that there is a generous response to the appeal now before the public. The soldiers' families, without the care and advice of the natural guardian of the home are entirely deserving of sympathy and practical assistance. In every household there must come times of sickness and distress. With the increased cost of living, and the absence from home of the head of the house, who is absolutely separated from her by distance and military exigencies, many a poor woman is almost at her wits' end to tide her over pressing difficulties. The Lord Mayor's Fund claims that it has fulfilled these objects as far as it possibly can. That it makes these claims with justice these families would testify, and that to this justice it adds kindliness and sympathy, is the belief that inspires those of us who have had the good fortune to see something of its beneficent work."

CRIMEAN VETERAN'S DEATH.

The funeral of Mr. Richard Doyle, a past grand warden of the Grand Lodge of Freemasons of New South Wales, and a veteran of the Crimean War, who died at his home at Neutral Bay on Saturday last, took place in the Congregational portion of the Rookwood Cemetery yesterday, the service being conducted by the Rev. John Ferguson. Mr. Doyle was inspector of the Australian Gaslight Company for forty-seven years. He was in his 85th year, and was for many years a member of the Highland Society of New South Wales, to the council of which he was elected a life member, and some years ago he was hon. secretary of the Burns Club. While returning to England from the Crimean war the vessel in which he was travelling was wrecked on the Spanish coast. Shortly after this he came to New South Wales, where, after being in business on his own account for some time, he entered the service of the Australian Gaslight Company. He served for a considerable time in the New South Wales Volunteer Artillery, in which he held the rank of quartermaster-sergeant. His wife predeceased him in 1888, and his youngest son, Lieutenant R. H. Doyle, was killed in France last June while acting adjutant of his battalion. His eldest son, Arthur J. Doyle, an actuary in the office of the State Government Statistician, is on active service in France, and another son is Mr. W. J. Doyle, accountant attached to the Port Stephens branch of Allen Taylor and Co. Nurse L. E. Doyle, of Neutral Bay, is a daughter. A grandson of the deceased, Master A. W. Doyle (son of Mr. W. J. Doyle), is serving with the Australian Navy.

The chief mourners at the graveside were Mr. W. J. Doyle (son), Mr. W. H. Bone (nephew), and Mr. S. M. Skinner. The Australian Gaslight Company was represented by Messrs. C. Colton, F. E. Williams, T. F. Gibbons, F. W. Fowler, R. McIver, W. Dennie, C. Wilson, A. Pye, R. D. Smith, and others. The Grand Lodge was represented by the Grand Master (M.W. Bro. W. Thompson) and the following officers:—Messrs. W. H. Simpson, P.G.M.; F. S. Mance, grand junior warden; E. Hungerford, president B. of G.P.; S. Scott Young, grand treasurer; Frank Smith, J. G. Moon, D. Mitchell, P.G.W.; J. Snape, P.P.B.B.; J. T. Coffill, P.P.B.B.; T. L. Rowbotham, A. H. Bray (grand secretary), G. H. Scurr, G. Watson, W. R. Day, D.G.I.W., W. T. Wearne, D.G.M.; and A. P. Bray. The following represented Lodge Australia No. 3:—S. A. Maddocks, W.M., J. N. Downward, secretary, T. Greep, W. J. Thompson, A. E. Pye, W. Roberts, C. Leece, T. C. Hamilton, R. C. Chapple, A. C. Gunner R. J. Savage, owner of Bolong Station, and youngest son of Mrs. Savage, of Niddrie, Burrowa, has been awarded the Military Medal in France for keeping up communication with headquarters from an observation post, enabling the officer in command of his battery to pick up positions on two enemy batteries. A brother, Major V. W. Savage, of the Army Medical Corps, has been twice mentioned in despatches by Sir Douglas Haig.

Mr. T. J. Murray, of Campbell-street, Moonona, has been advised that his son, Private Norman Murray, has been awarded the Military Medal and bar in France. A twin brother, Private Owen Murray, is on active service in Egypt.

WAR NOTES.

THE RAIDS ON THE WEST FRONT.

The correspondents at French and British Headquarters appear to be no wiser as to the real portent of the recent enemy raiding activity on the Western front than are the interested observers in other parts of the world, who have only the bald official reports to guide them in forming conclusions. The representative of the United Press, while evidently regarding the raids as significant of Hindenburg's desire to probe and test the Allies' line, is cautious in his comments as to the reasons actuating the enemy. On the other hand the French military critics do not believe that the raids indicate that the enemy is on the eve of a big offensive. We cannot ignore this latter view, as the French critics are usually fairly well informed on military matters. The question of the enemy's intentions, however, is one which must necessarily be subject to a considerable amount of guess work on the part of the Allies, whether it is approached by critics or by those responsible for the defence of the Allied line. Those who actually know what Germany intends to do on the West during the present year are least likely to divulge the information, and whatever they can do to mislead their opponents in this respect will be done. It is because the Allies observe similar secrecy regarding their own intentions that these raids serve a purpose, whether the side delivering them is about to take the offensive or not.

GERMAN CONDITIONS OF VICTORY.

The latest news from Russia is as unsatisfactory as ever, and the details concerning the latest Russo-German peace treaty suggest that the Bolsheviks' ideas of diplomacy are about as disastrous as their beliefs regarding the efficacy of propaganda as a weapon against the military organisation of Germany. The way in which Russia has agreed to peace at any price proves the hopelessness of the position in which a belligerent is situated when it allows its military machine to fall into disrepair before it decides to enter upon peace negotiations. Revolutionary Russia believed that it could settle its grievances with Germany by means of a round-table conference, at which both sides would agree to bury the hatchet and arrange amicable terms of settlement which would profit both parties. When her delegates at Brest Litovsk realised that Germany was determined that the settlement should be one between victor and vanquished, they broke off negotiations. Germany then proceeded to show that she was the victor, and that Russia was the vanquished, and, when defeated Russia again appealed for peace, she found that the conditions of victory had been made more stringent than ever. In addition to the Russian provinces claimed by Germany at Brest-Litovsk during the first peace negotiations with Russia, fresh districts in Russian Armenia, extending from the Black Sea down towards Persia, are now demanded, apparently with a view to strengthening the Turkish north-eastern frontier in Asia Minor and ensuring Germany's road to the east. Russia appears to be willing to grant any demand of the victor now, as long as she gets peace.

MACKENSEN'S PLANS FOR ROUMANIA.

The suggestion made by the "Weser Zeitung" that Mackensen has prepared a rapid offensive against Roumania in the event of her refusal to accept peace terms is rather a cynical one. There is little need for Germany to admit that such a scheme has been occupying her mind, as her actions in pushing into Volhynia, Podolia, and towards Bessarabia, on the pretext that her troops are rendering assistance to the Ukrainians, have shown clearly what her intentions are should Roumania refuse to accept her conditions of victory on the Eastern front. Already enemy forces are well around what was previously the Roumanian right flank, and very shortly they will be working down towards the Roumanian rear. Mackensen is certainly in a most favourable position for a rapid offensive against Roumania, seeing that he has only to continue to move forces down into what was previously Russian territory, where he need expect no resistance from the Russians, in order to surround completely the Roumanian forces. It is difficult to see what possible chance Roumania would have of withstanding successfully a serious enemy offensive in her present isolated position. She is no doubt prepared to accept any reasonable terms which her enemies are likely to offer her in the present circumstances. If there is any truth in the Copenhagen message, which states that she has rejected the peace terms offered by Germany, it can be safely assumed that those terms must have been exceptionally severe.

POSITION IN IRELAND.

Exactly what will be the outcome of the resolution of the Grand Jury of the Clare Assizes it is difficult to say, but there has been an uncomfortable suspicion of late that if the censorship regarding events in certain Irish districts was lifted for a while the necessity for a firmer attitude on the part of those in authority would be clearly revealed. The manner in which certain lawless elements there have been permitted to exercise a free hand recently suggests that more notice is being taken of German insinuations regarding England's treatment of Ireland than they merit. No nation can afford to adopt a spineless attitude towards traitors and anarchists in time of war, especially when that nation has opposed to it a Power like Germany, which relies so much for success upon the machinations of its agents and dupes amongst the peoples of countries opposed to her. Such an attitude was adopted by M. Malvy, the ex-Minister for the Interior in France, and M. Malvy eventually had to answer charges which included that of encouraging the enemy by promoting and inciting a mutiny. We have all been more or less surprised and shocked at some of the recent revelations in France, in which the names of Bolo, Caillaux, and Malvy have appeared most prominently, and we are apt to pride ourselves upon the fact that such diseases as Boloism are confined to the Continent. A politician or Minister who displays criminal weakness and adopts an ostrich-like attitude towards an evil which requires drastic treatment may prove just as dangerous to his country in the long run as one who is capable of secretly communicating with his country's enemy.

BRITAIN'S ARMY.

A correspondent writes asking to be supplied with the statement made by a British Cabinet Minister recently, regarding the number of men serving in the British Army, from England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales, and the Dominions. The statement in question was made in the House of Commons, in January last, by the Minister for National Service, Sir Auckland Geddes, while introducing the Man-power Bill. After announcing that the position of Britain's Allies laid the heaviest burden upon Britain until the Americans were ready, Sir Auckland Geddes said that the Empire hitherto had raised seven and a half million troops. The contributions were as follows:—

England	4,530,000
Scotland	620,000
Wales	280,000
Ireland	170,000
The Dominions and colonies	900,000

HOSPITAL FOR CHILDREN.

A special effort is being made by the committee of the Royal Alexandra Hospital for Children for the purpose of raising funds by means of a carnival and art union. The carnival is to be held on March 22, and promises to be a great success. The attractions are novel, and include an impersonation of Charlie Chaplin. Items will also be given by the children of the Public schools, under the auspices of the P.S.A.A.A.

VOLCANIC ACTIVITY.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Monday.

A guide engaged at Mount Egmont described remarkable changes on the summit this week. There are, he said, deep crevices across the crater, some being apparently bottomless. Another new feature is that the whole crater is running with streams of water although there are indications of heat beneath.

RUSSIA

ACCEPTS GERMANY'S PEACE TERMS

ROUMANIA'S ATTITUDE

MACKENSEN THREATENS OFFENSIVE.

(Admiralty per Wireless Press.)

LONDON, March 4.

A wireless German official message on Sunday stated: Owing to the signing of the peace treaty military movements in Great Russia have ceased.

A telegram from Petrograd says that Lenin and Trotsky report the latest German peace terms, which are more stringent than those of February 25, were presented as an ultimatum, which the delegation signed without discussion.

The new terms compel Russia to yield the Batoum (Transcaucasia), Kars (Transcaucasia), and Karaghan (Persia) districts.

The signing of the agreement without discussion has made a bad impression on the Council of Commissaries.

Petrograd advices state that the Revolutionary Committee has summoned all officers on the military list to co-operate in the defence of the city. The peace delegation wired the Council of Commissaries ordering them not to surrender anything without a struggle, urging that they should fight to the last. They added that the Germans had only small detachments. Nevertheless, it appears the delegates decided to sign peace terms regardless of conditions.

Polish reports received in Amsterdam declare that Germany has objected to Trotsky's presence at Brest-Litovsk. It is added that Berlin expects Trotsky will shortly resign.

VAST BOOTY CLAIMED.

A wireless German official message on Sunday stated: After a hard fight we captured Pleskau, also Polozk and Bolissoff, (north-east of Minsk), and junctioned with Polish divisions at Bobruisk (80 miles south-east of Minsk).

The Austro-Germans entered Shmerinka. We have so far captured 6800 officers, 57,000 men, 2100 guns, 5000 machine-guns, thousands of vehicles (including 1900 motor vehicles), 11 armoured motor cars, 12,800 rifles, 800 locomotives, 8000 railway trucks, and great quantities of artillery and munitions.

Moreover, we captured in Reval 513 men, 220 guns, and 22 aeroplanes.

THE FOOD PROBLEM.

A Zurich message says that the Burgomaster of Vienna, addressing the municipality's officials, said the word bankruptcy might be written over the door of the Austrian Food Department. Vienna was again obliged to ask Berlin's assistance. The Government had utterly failed to realise the desperate situation. Unless wheat from the Ukraine were soon obtained Austria would be incapable of holding out.

Mr. Shaplen, the Petrograd correspondent of the United Press, interviewed M. Kalegayeff, Commissioner for Agriculture, who said: The war will continue irrespective of the signing of peace at Brest-Litovsk. The Germans occupy only breadless provinces. If they take Petrograd they must feed three million inhabitants. These military successes, therefore, will simply tighten the economic noose around the necks of the Germans.

BRITISH EMBASSY PLUNDERED

The "Dusseldorfer Nachrichten" says that some Russians, commanded by a colonel, plundered the British Embassy in Petrograd after the personnel had left, burnt some documents, and confiscated others.

The Charge d'Affaires protested to Trotsky, who replied that the Government had nothing to do with the outrage, and was not responsible.

FAMINE IN FINLAND.

A terrible famine prevails in Helsingfors. The last bread ration was distributed yesterday. The Premier has resigned.

BALTIC FLEET.

Advices from Petrograd state that at a large meeting of delegates from the Baltic Fleet it was resolved to continue the offensive against Germany.

ROUMANIA REJECTS TERMS.

A Copenhagen message says the "National Tidende's" Berlin correspondent reports that Roumania has rejected the German peace terms, the King refusing the terms.

The "Weser Zeitung" says that Mackensen has prepared a rapid offensive against Roumania in the event of her refusal to accept peace terms.

An official German message on Sunday intercepted by the Admiralty stated:—A further armistice has been granted Roumania to continue peace negotiations.

THE EX-CZAR.

A Paris message says that wireless information in possession of the French Government agrees with Sir George Buchanan's statement concerning the ex-Czar. The latter consistently gave the French Ambassador the same assurances as he gave Sir George Buchanan. Moreover, the ex-Czar handed M. Viviani in April, 1916, an autograph letter to President Poincare declaring that the two countries were more closely united and more firmly decided than ever to co-ordinate in their joint efforts, and to render these more effective by each placing their maximum means in the service of the common cause. The ex-Czar hoped that M. Viviani and M. Thomas would carry back the conviction that Russia within the scope of material possibility would not shrink from making any sacrifice for the speedy triumph of the Allies.

Official documents in Paris confirm Sir George Buchanan's assertion that the ex-Czar would not betray the Allies. The ex-Czar's autograph letter to President Poincare in April, 1916, has been published. The ex-Czar stated: I am firmly decided that Russia will not lay down her arms except by common agreement after definite victory. Russia will recoil from no sacrifice to achieve a triumph for the Allies.

AALAND ISLANDS.

A German squadron is reported as passing Gothland (an island off the east coast of Sweden), apparently transporting troops to the Aaland Islands (Gulf of Bothnia), where two transports, protected by eight cruisers and destroyers, disembarked troops on Saturday. Simultaneously, the German Minister at Stockholm formally notified the Swedish Government that Germany intends to use the Aaland Islands as a base for the despatch of troops to Finland to suppress the revolution. The Minister declared that Germany had no territorial interest in the Aaland Islands, whose future vitally concerned Sweden. The Swedish Government sharply protested that Germany's action was calculated to bring the islands within the war zone. The situation is causing the greatest excitement in Sweden.

BOMBS ON PETROGRAD.

The London newspapers comment on Germany's cynical celebration of the cessation of Russian hostilities by carrying out an air raid on Petrograd on Sunday. There were thirteen casualties.

JAPAN.

DELICATE SITUATION

AMERICAN PRESS VIEWS.

LONDON, March 4.

The Japanese Embassy in Washington reports that Japanese and Chinese troops have entered Siberia. The Japanese are merely guarding the railway near Harbin.

Washington correspondents point out that the situation is delicate, because the Allies do not want the Bolsheviks to construe Japanese participation as an unfriendly act towards Russia.

The "New York Times" says: If Japan lands a force in Vladivostock she will not establish the shadow of a title to retain Siberian territory after the war. It is absurd to suppose that Japan will make such pretensions.

The "New York World" believes that Britain will not consent to the despatch of a Japanese force to Siberia without definite agreements regarding the employment and ultimate withdrawal of the troops.

The "New York Herald" suggests that Japan should invite Chinese co-operation in any protective movement in the Far East.

The newspapers emphasise the urgency for giving Japan a mandate to act in Siberia. Large stocks of American and Japanese munitions for use against the enemy are stored in Vladivostock, Harbin, and Irkutsk, which must not be allowed to fall into German hands.

TRICK THAT FAILED.

FRANCE AND GERMANY.

The Paris correspondent of the "Daily Telegraph," referring to M. Pichon's (French Foreign Minister) revelations at the Alsace-Lorraine celebrations in the Sorbonne, states that the references to Verdun and Toul appeared at the end of a long despatch, of which only the first portion was published in the German White Book. When von Choen (then German Ambassador in Paris) offered neutrality he expected that M. Viviani (then Premier) would accept or reject it. If the latter, France would have borne the onus of commencing the world-war. If the former, von Choen would have disclosed humiliating conditions. The trick failed; M. Viviani merely replying that France's conduct would be dictated by her honour and interests. The French Government was unable to decipher the text of von Choen's message until last week, when it discovered the key to the cipher which Germany changed after the Agadir negotiations.

[At the Alsace-Lorraine celebrations M. Pichon read a telegram dated July 31, 1914, from Bethmann-Hollweg to von Choen. Hollweg's telegram stated that if the French Government remained neutral von Choen must inform it that as a guarantee of such neutrality Germany insisted on France handing over the fortresses at Toul and Verdun, which the Germans would occupy and restore after the war. It was added Germany must have a reply before 4 o'clock on Saturday afternoon.]

GERMAN AGENTS.

REMARKABLE NETWORK.

Further telegrams from Paris state that it is alleged the principal operations of the Tremblez gang concerned shipping movements—arrivals and departures—which, it is expected, will explain the activity of German submarines on the Brittany coast.

The "Petit Parisien" says that Tremblez confided to a friend that his Swiss affairs had earned him £160,000.

The "Matin" says that a search of Tremblez' chateau revealed documents proving that he communicated with Germany. He bought the chateau in Brittany some years ago. It is a beautiful mansion situated near Quimperle. He lived as a gentleman farmer with his wife and family. Neighbours state that Tremblez had few friends. Tremblez was noted for his mysterious motor trips at night. None except himself knew the destination of the motor. He spent the daytime roaming the fields and woods, accompanied only by dogs.

The "Petit Parisien" says the authorities recently suspected German submarines were obtaining, or attempting to obtain, supplies on the Brittany coast, and set a sharp watch upon certain individuals. Tremblez is aged 38.

Suzy Dephy is a beautiful woman, aged 30. She was born in Normandy, and met Guillain during a boxing match in Dieppe six years ago. Guillain was then flourishing as manager for some famous boxers. Guillain and his wife came to Paris. The wife soon began to appear at music halls. Latterly Suzy Dephy did not live with her husband. He lived in a small flat on the ground floor in the Avenue Bloquet, and she had an elegant flat on the fifth floor of the same building.

Suzy Dephy lately bought two motors and jewels worth £4000. Recently she appeared in a play, oddly entitled "Les Nouveaux Riches."

IRELAND.

Mr. John Redmond is likely to resign the leadership of the Irish Nationalists for health reasons. Mr. John Dillon will probably succeed him.

The Grand Jury for the Clare Assizes passed a resolution expressing indignation at the state of lawlessness, intimidation, and outrage allowed to grow up in Clare. The resolution blamed the present Irish Administration for notorious neglect of the most elementary obligations of government, and protested at the unfairness of the Administration's attitude towards the Irish constabulary and troops, who were often compelled to look on passively at the most illegal proceedings.

ENEMY VESSELS MINED.

German semi-official news says that only a mine-sweeper and three trawlers were concerned in the gunfire off Vlieland (Dutch coast). The majority of the crews were saved.

TRADING WITH ENEMY.

ITALIAN SMUGGLING CASES.

A Rome message states that further arrests have been made in connection with the discovery of shameless trading with the enemy in silk and cotton shred, suitable for the wings of aeroplanes and airships.

The arrests include three millionaires named Dubina, Ceresa, and Braindа, also Commendatore Feltranelli, who is one of the richest men in Italy.

WEST FRONT

ISOLATED ACTIONS.

MILITARY CRITICS' VIEWS.

LONDON, March 4.

Military critics in France agree that there is nothing in the isolated actions on the Western front to indicate that the enemy is on the eve of a big offensive.

BRITISH REPORTS.

Sir Douglas Haig reporting at 11.30 p.m. on Sunday stated: We captured a few prisoners last night during a patrol encounter north-eastward of Polygon Wood (on the Ypres sector).

FRENCH COMMUNIQUES.

A French communique on Sunday afternoon stated: Fairly lively bombardments have occurred on Chaume Wood (east of the Meuse) front. Our artillery prevented an enemy attack north-east of Reillon, in Lorraine, as he was preparing to leave his lines.

A French communique, issued on Sunday night, stated: Lively artillery actions have occurred on the right of the Meuse, in the Woevre, Domevre, and Badonvillers regions. A violent enemy bombardment was made against our lines north of the Rhone-Rhine Canal.

"LOSING HEAVILY."

The correspondent of the United Press at the British headquarters in France telegraphs: Events are speeding up along the West front. Raiding and patrol activity has increased during the past 48 hours. A dozen raids have been made on this front alone during the past 36 hours. Some were important enough to be called attacks. Ten of these were carried out by the Germans. Hindenburg is probing and testing everywhere, and losing heavily, but apparently he does not worry over the loss of 50 or 60 men if the remnant of the raiding party returns with one or two samples of the British troops.

The Germans are imitating the British, but lack their dash and cunning. For example, in a raid against the Australians in Flanders, 200 Germans, including nine officers, rehearsed the raid many times against counterpart positions, yet they left 21 dead on our wire, including the commander. The weather is dull, and rain threatening.

THE AMERICANS.

A Paris message says that descendants of French soldiers who fought in the American war of independence have presented standards to four American regiments of infantry and one artillery regiment.

A message from Paris says the Germans continue their attacks on the Americans on Chemin des Dames. The Germans were repulsed with considerable losses. A feature of the fighting is the extensive use by the Americans of automatic pistols.

THE AUSTRALIANS.

STIRRING ENCOUNTERS.

Mr. F. M. Cutlack, assistant official correspondent with the A.I.F., cabling on Sunday, stated: Under a heavy bombardment by both sides several stirring minor engagements occurred last night on the Australian front. The enemy was doubtless stung by the repeated successes of our men in raids and patrol encounters. Prisoners recently captured informed us that attacks by the Germans would in all probability be made very soon. Last night about 8.30 a fighting patrol of Queenslanders met an enemy party of 50 on No Man's Land, near Lys. An advance section of the Australians was temporarily ambushed by a minenwerfer barrage, but escaped by swimming across icy water in a large ditch, and passed the third enemy barrage. Two slightly-wounded rejoined the remainder, who, though outnumbered, beat off the enemy.

At 9.30 p.m. a heavy enemy bombardment opened east of Wytschaete and Messines. An infantry action did not follow at the latter locality, where our answering artillery fire must have checked any contemplated attack.

Further north near Hollebeke South Australian outposts were heavily attacked by 200 Germans. The night was pitch dark. Patrols south of the canal came in firing signals, and reported large parties of enemy advancing. The Germans, preceded by pioneers, who fired explosive charges at our wire, attacked two advance posts on two sides at once. The garrisons made a most gallant fight, and prevented the enemy entering the posts, though greatly outnumbered.

Meanwhile with the weight of numbers the enemy penetrated an opening in the wire between the posts to a dugout immediately in the rear, where a hand-to-hand fight ensued. The wind, darkness, and bombardment made the location difficult by the platoon officer, who led a courageous counter-attack, a Lewis gun practically annihilating the German party which had entered. The German officer leading attempted to thwart our efforts by calling out, "Don't shoot; come and help us." The Australian took no notice, and the German leader was shot. Over 20 of the enemy dead were left about our wire. Four prisoners were taken, including another officer, who was wounded, and has since died. Our total casualties did not exceed the known enemy dead. As the bombardment diminished another enemy party attacked an Australian post further south under a minenwerfer barrage. In the darkness German scouts had cut the wire with hand-cutters. The enemy swarmed about the post and called, "Put your hands up." The Australians answered with rifle fire and bombs, and drove off the enemy, capturing one prisoner and one light machine-gun. Prisoners state that the attack was rehearsed in the rear of their lines for a week.

"DON'T SHOOT."

Mr. Philip Gibbs telegraphs: The raiding adventures of the Germans have on an average been less fortunate for the enemy than for ourselves. The desire for prisoners was urgent in order to learn the composition of our forces. The enemy rehearsed a raid on the Australians many days previously. The guns suddenly opened a violent barrage on the Australian outpost positions. The Germans followed it in small groups. The outposts rallied bravely, but were overpowered by the enemy, who entered the line shouting in English, "Put your hands up, don't shoot." A German officer was shot through the throat while shouting. Several men were killed as they advanced, but the enemy momentarily succeeded in getting as far as the company headquarters in a dugout.

An Australian platoon commander organised an immediate counter-attack. He showed fine courage and judgment in driving off the enemy after quick, fierce fighting. The officer comanding the attackers was killed and an officer and several men were captured. More than 20 dead Germans were lying across the Australian wire. In almost every raid the raiders paid heavily for everyone of our men. There were several cases on Friday night and Saturday night when not a single prisoner was taken. There have been several encounters between patrols in No Man's Land. Sharp fighting of this kind occurred southward of Pontruet (north-west of St. Quentin) last night. The enemy was severely handled. It was all individual fighting with the handiest kind of weapon—bayonet, bomb, and butt-end of rifle. In one case an Australian lost his rifle in the darkness and excitement, and killed a German by hitting him on the head with his steel hat. These fierce little dramas of the night are occurring in blizzards. After a mild February, March came in like a lion.

Mr. Percival Phillips says that the German raiders received special coaching in English phrases in order to deceive the Australian sentries.

OSTEND.

BOMBED BY BRITISH.

SEAPLANE SHEDS RAIDED.

The Admiralty reports: Aircraft successfully raided seaplane sheds at Ostend. A number of hits were obtained from an altitude of 150 to 300 feet. Three direct hits were obtained on an anti-aircraft battery in the vicinity. All our machines returned.

GERMAN PEACE PARTIES.

A message from Berne says that "Vorwaerts," commenting on the Socialist conference in London, says that the resolutions contain claims which may be perfectly just, but the Central Powers will never accept them. Two currents of opinion exist in Germany, one favouring for a peace basis the status quo ante bellum, and the other seeking territorial gains. Neither will ever agree to abandon what Germany possessed before the war.

SALE OF WAR BONDS.

A business men's week in the form of a new tank campaign for the sale of war bonds will open in London on Monday, 4th inst. It is expected to realise £100,000,000. Tanks will be stationed at leading points in the city. The Anzac Band will play in Trafalgar-square throughout the week, and a military pigeon post will convey applications for a certain amount from investors to the tanks.

RECRUITING.

FIGURES STILL FALLING.

LAUNCHING THE NEW SCHEME.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Returns made available to-day from the various States show that recruiting is still falling off. The following were the enlistments in the several States for last week and the previous week, respectively:—New South Wales, 164 and 175; Victoria, 118 and 141; South Australia, 32 and 34; Tasmania, 28 and 14.

The Director-General of Recruiting, Mr. Mackinnon, M.L.A., said to-day that no time would be lost in preparing to launch the new recruiting scheme. He had communicated with the chairmen of the State Recruiting Committees, directing their attention to certain aspects of the new scheme, which entailed special preparation, and requesting them to have all their staffs ready for general action as soon as the detailed scheme was made available. The State Recruiting Committees had been specially enjoined to direct attention to the ballot system, and to give publicity to the invitation to wealthy patriotic citizens to assist men to enlist by paying the premiums on their insurance policies. He had asked the committees to supply details of the number of eligibles in their districts, and the quotas that should be supplied from these areas.

Sergeant Cross, D.C.M., Sergeant Salisbury, M.M., Sergeant Banks, Private Mapstone, and Warrant-Officer Blake were the speakers at the Martin-place recruiting meeting yesterday.

Warrant-Officer Blake said he was the third man to enlist in New South Wales. As one who had "done his bit," he reminded the easy-going young men who were holding back that the war would be won or lost, not in Australia, but on the western front in France. Australia in calling for more men could point proudly to the fact that her fighting sons had already won 11050 military decorations.

To-day at 12.15 Lieutenant Thomson and Private Burns will address the employees of McMurtrie's Factory, Marian-street, Redfern.

To-morrow, Lieutenant Roberts (New Zealand), Lieutenant Jackson, Sergeant-Major Glynn, and Sergeant Skinner will be the speakers in Martin-place.

The official recruiting figures for New South Wales show that last week 328 men volunteered, of whom 164 were accepted.

In the New South Wales official figures for the month of February, East Sydney contributed 51 out of a total of 753 accepted men. The volunteers in East Sydney numbered 123. North Sydney furnished 50 accepted men out of 85 volunteers; Newcastle 48 accepted men out of 84 volunteers.

RETURNED SOLDIERS.

CONGRESS IN HOBART.

HOBART, Monday.

The Congress of the Returned Sailors and Soldiers' Imperial League was resumed at Hobart on Saturday, Senator Colonel Bolton presiding. The whole afternoon was devoted to a heated discussion on prohibition.

Sergt. McCrae (Tas.) proposed that steps be immediately taken to eliminate the traffic liqour; and though Mr. Kerr (S.A.) and others pointed out that the congress had no right to discuss political and sectarian matters, and that the state branches had already decided against prohibition, the president ruled that the delegates had a right as individuals to express opinions without binding the branches by the result.

Mr. Hammond (N.S.W.) who seconded the motion, said many communicants and teetotalers returned from active service a disgrace.

Mr. Martin (South Australia) moved an amendment referring prohibition back to branches, and Mr. Roberts seconded it.

Sergt. McCrae, replying, said that five per cent. of Tasmanian recruits were rejected through drink.

The amendment was carried by 9 votes to 7, and a further amendment that the whole question lapse was carried without discussion.

Mr. Martin (South Australia) moved that the Minister for Repatriation be requested to give attention to soldier inebriates. Chaplain Teece, M.C. (South Australia), said the object of the resolution was to prevent returned soldiers found drunk being lodged in gaol, but in homes, where they could be cured instead of made worse.

The resolution was amended to soldiers suffering from mental, moral, and physical re-action, and was carried.

Colonel Mackay, C.B., Director-General of the Australian Army Reserve, addressed the congress, and appealed through the delegates to all returned soldiers to join the reserve, mentioning that over 6000 had already joined.

Captain Hempton (N.S.W.) said the National Government was dodging its responsibilities to returned soldiers and its pledge to win the war. They should now show politicians that unless they kept promises the returned soldiers would bust up their political organisation and form another.

Mr. Morris (N.S.W.) said the league should watch carefully the marketing of property for sale to returned soldiers.

Resolutions were adopted that increased pensions be paid irrespective of the income of soldiers before enlistment, or after discharge; that the minimum pension for totally incapacitated soldiers be the standard living wage, whether married or single; that on discharge, the soldier should receive full pension for twelve months; that the sustenance granted to returned soldiers receiving vocational training should be the living wage exclusive of pension; that the Minister for Repatriation revise the whole of the land legislation in connection with the repatriation scheme, and that the league be represented on the board appointed for the purpose, and that the Minister's attention be directed to the Canadian system of settlement.

LATE WAR NEWS.

CAMBRAI BATTLE.

SIR DOUGLAS HAIG'S DESPATCH.

LONDON, March 4.

Field-Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, in a despatch dealing with the battle of Cambrai, mentions it was proposed to stop the attack 48 hours after the commencement or sooner if the results had not justified its continuance.

Detailing the reasons for the continuance of the battle after the expiry of this period, Sir Douglas Haig states the positions captured north of Flesquieres were completely commanded by Bourlon Ridge, and must be abandoned unless the ridge were gained. On the other hand, the enemy showed signs of withdrawing, and the loss of the ridge would probably cause the Germans to abandon carefully prepared defence systems for a considerable distance to the northward. The enemy was not yet too strong in the Bourlon region to be overcome by the numbers at Sir Douglas Haig's disposal. An additional and the most important argument for continuing the attack was the enemy offensive in Italy. Moreover, two divisions under orders for Italy were placed at Sir Douglas Haig's disposal. Therefore, the prospect of securing Bourlon Ridge seemed good.

Dealing with the enemy counter-attack of November 31, Sir Douglas Haig says at the northern end of Bonavis Ridge and Gonnelieu sector the swiftness of the enemy's advance after the opening bombardment appears to have overwhelmed our troops, both in the line and the immediate support, almost before they realised the attack had begun.

THE WOLF.

AUSTRALIANS' EXPERIENCES.

The Stockholm correspondent of the "New York World" interviewed the passengers, including Australians, who were aboard the stranded steamer Igotz Mendi, which was captured by the raider Wolf. The passengers relate that at the end of March the Wolf sailed towards Australia and captured the barque Dee, which was bound from Mauritius to Australia. After the capture of the Winslow the passengers were locked below for 28 days. Their sufferings were awful, owing to the terrible heat. When near the Kermadec Islands three of the passengers jumped overboard. Two escaped, and one was eaten by a shark. The raider made prisoners of two Australian military surgeons aboard the Matunga. The raider later dropped mines near Colombo. She carried a hydroplane for scouting.

"TANK WEEK."

KING'S MESSAGE.

His Majesty the King has sent the following message to Mr. Bonar Daw, Leader of the House of Commons and Chancellor of the Exchequer, on the opening of "Tank Week":—

"I should like to wish you every success in the great efforts that are being made throughout the country in connection with 'Business Week.' I am confident that my people are willing to contribute now, and in the future, whatever money may be necessary to secure victory."

RUSSIA.

According to a Stockholm message, General Mannerheim has decided to court-martial the commander of the Finnish White Guards for capitulating and evacuating Aaland Islands contrary to orders.

A Petrograd message says that aeroplane bombs fell in the neighbourhood of Fontanka Channel, killing two and injuring eight persons.

The Central Executive has summoned an extraordinary congress of the Soviet Deputies to ratify the peace terms at Moscow on the 12th. The people of Petrograd are not aware of how the peace terms will affect Northern Russia. Possibly, they include political reconstruction, in addition to territorial stipulations.

JAPAN.

The Washington correspondent of the New York "Times" says: It is semi-officially stated that the United States is hopeful that Japan will give assurances she will evacuate Russian territory when the emergency has passed. The most cordial relations exist between Japan and America, particularly since the Treaty was signed by Viscount Ishii and Mr. R. Lansing.

A Tokio message says: A bill has been introduced into the Japanese Diet, authorising the War Minister to mobilise industries contributing to the prosecution of the war.

PRESIDENT WILSON.

TO REPLY TO GERMANY.

A Washington message says it is expected that President Wilson will address Congress in answer to Hertling (German Chancellor) within a few days.

REPORTED MASSACRE.

The New York "Times'" Hague correspondent says: Authentic information from Asia Minor says the entire male Armenian population of Sansun, including children, have been massacred by the Turks.

IRELAND.

The presence of the military has resulted in the re-establishment of law and order in the County Clare.

Claims amounting to £10,000 have already been filed for damage for illegal ploughing and cattle driving.

Viscount French visited County Clare on Sunday.

A bomb was thrown through the window of the Westport Police Barracks and exploded, wounding a constable.

SINKING OF THE GLENART CASTLE.

Commander Nicholl, in a speech at Newport, stated he was prepared to say the submarine which sank the hospital ship Glenart Castle knew when she left Newport. He demanded that Aliens should not be allowed at the docks. There were spies in every port of the Bristol Channel. No vessel left unknown to these submarines. As the examining officer of the Bristol Channel, he knew what he was talking about.

GERMAN ESPIONAGE.

A Paris message states that Americans captured a German prisoner carrying a complete map of the American trenches on the Toul-Saint Mihiel front.

HENTY-BILLABONG RAILWAY.

LOCKHART, Monday.

Speaking at an important meeting of the Corowa District Farmers' Council the retiring president, Mr. C. L. Milthorpe, in reply to a question, said that he could flatly contradict the assertion that there was any syndicate handling the Henty-Billabong railway scheme. He claimed to know as much about the project as any man in Australia. It was the only line which ex-Commissioner Johnson considered should be built without delay. Most of the settlers had taken up the land on this understanding. Already there were 130,000 bags of wheat being stacked along the route.

ANOTHER CYCLONE.

ANXIETY CONCERNING STEAMER.

MARYBOROUGH (Q.), Monday.

A terrific cyclone was reported to be raging off Double Island Point this morning, with strong south-easterly gales. The gale raged throughout last night at Sandy Cape, but reports at 9 o'clock this morning showed that it had moderated there, and was moving in a southerly direction, Double Island being in the centre.

During the thick of the cyclone at Sandy Cape a heavy downpour of rain was experienced, over 700 points being recorded.

Grave anxiety is felt locally concerning the fate of the paddle-wheel steamer Adonis, which left Brisbane last Tuesday bound for Maryborough with a little cargo and no ballast for the purpose of loading timber for Mackay. She appeared off Double Island Point on Sunday, and was seen sheltering there throughout the day. Towards evening however, in the teeth of the gale, she appeared to be dragging her anchors, and by 10 o'clock at night had disappeared from the lighthouse-keeper's sight entirely. The news was made known to Captain E. J. Boult, harbour master at Maryborough, and throughout this morning lighthouse-keepers at Double Island, Inskip, Woody Island, and Sandy Cape advised that no trace of the vessel could be found. Furthermore they stated that in such a gale as was raging the vessel could scarcely survive. Although hope in Maryborough was dimmed, it was not extinguished, and about 4 p.m. news was received from Double Island that the vessel had been sighted. As she lived through the fiercest period of the cyclone, it is now considered that she is safe, especially as advice has been received that the cyclone is moving further southwards. The Adonis is a paddle-wheel steamer of 116 tons, owned by J. Burke, of South Brisbane. Capt. Howard Ruska is in charge, and there is a crew of ten aboard.

MACKAY CANEFIELDS.

BRISBANE, Monday.

The general superintendent of the Bureau of Sugar Experiment Stations, Mr. Easterby, has returned from the Mackay district. Speaking of growing crops of cane, Mr. Easterby said the most serious damage from the recent cyclone appeared to be confined to an area within about nine miles from the town. Thus, at the sugar experiment station, three miles out, fully 50 per cent. of young cane was literally snapped off on two or three plots, while more advanced cane stood the blow better. Around the racecourse area the damage to the cane on many farms would vary from 10 per cent. to 50 per cent. on an average. Cane at the Palms plantation had also been much knocked about and destroyed. Further along the line to Finch Hatton the crops appeared to have weathered the storm well, and good reports were received from most of the areas at McGregor's and Owen's Creek, on the Homebush area. The general superintendent visited nearly every sugar growing area, and from personal inspection of the greater part of the cane in the district he was inclined to put the average loss of cane at 20 per cent. to 25 per cent. The enormous rainfall from January 1 to February 13, viz. 91½ inches, undoubtedly had a large influence in checking the growth of cane, which was not nearly so forward as it should have been. The cane was rapidly making new leaves, and now present a much more attractive appearance than it did even so recently as three weeks ago. Crops showing about one to two feet of cane appeared to suffer most. Late cut ratoons were scarcely injured, and longer cane bent more successfully to the wind's fury.

"WONDERFUL FRANCE."

CAPT. CARMICHAEL'S TRIBUTE

"France, wonderful France, has won new glories in this war. Bearing the burden of the struggle when we were unprepared France has nobly fulfilled her obligation to the world in the cause of Christian civilisation. France, wonderful France, is still an inspiring example of heroic courage and unconquerable patriotism, and only over the dead body of the last Frenchman fit to strike a blow for liberty and justice can the hated foe hope to march to the final victory on French soil. The spirit of France has not been shaken, has not been subdued, and that spirit will shine with undiminished splendour in the time of triumph."

This tribute to the French nation fell from the lips of Captain Carmichael, M.C., M.L.A., last night, while he was acknowledging the presentation of an album, with the names of the members of the Institut de Conversation Francaise, at the Girls' High School, Elizabeth-street.

"God save the King" was sung as Captain Carmichael and Mrs. Carmichael entered the flag-decorated schoolroom. The singing of the Marseillaise followed.

M. Chayet, Consul-General for France, described how the Institute of French Conversation was initiated in Sydney some three years ago by the soldier-politician who had returned with the decorations of distinguished military service. Captain Carmichael, said the speaker, had raised 1000 men to fight on the side of Britain and her Allies, and the French residents of Sydney and those associated with them in love of France, hoped that he would be successful in raising another 1000 as reinforcements for the brave Australians at the front.

M. Aucher concluded a speech in English by addressing Captain Carmichael. "More than 40 years ago," he said, "I fought against those devils. You have been fighting them too, and as an old soldier, I salute you."

The cover of the album which was handed to Captain Carmichael by M. Chayet, as president of the institute, was designed by Mrs. Spring, one of the members. A bouquet, with Captain Carmichael's battalion colours, was handed to Mrs. Carmichael.

The handsome souvenir, Captain Carmichael said, would remind him of many pleasant evenings he had spent as a member of the institute. The study of the French language by those who were not French, he added, would enable them to appreciate all the more the splendid spirit France had shown during the war, and with that appreciation there would be an ever-increasing admiration for the great French nation.

DOCTORS AND LODGES.

VICTORIAN GOVERNMENT'S PROPOSALS

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The long-standing dispute between the doctors and the lodges was discussed at length by the State Cabinet to-day. The Premier, Mr. Bowser, in announcing that a bill would probably be brought forward this week, said that the principles of the bill would be entirely different from the proposals which were originally submitted. It is understood that the principle of compulsory arbitration has been abandoned, and that Ministers now have in view the appointment of a board consisting of representatives of both sides, with a chairman who will be acceptable to both parties.

SOLDIERS' UNIVERSAL SERVICE PARTY.

The Returned Sailors and Soldiers' Universal Service party at a meeting on Friday night expressed disappointment with the recruiting scheme, and the suggestion that recruiting sergeants should receive 10s for each recruit as a bonus was described as an insult to all true fighting men.

It was contended that the Government should appoint a comptroller with a business commission of experts with full power to develop the war forces to the highest degree. The railways and coastal shipping, it was urged, should be immediately organised, and the comptroller given power to limit the area of transportation of all commodities. The tonnage of coastal shipping thus relieved should be made available for oversea transportation.

Motions were passed that the Government should immediately guarantee farmers a fair price per bushel for three years for all wheat, and that under the Home Defence Act all men of an eligible age should be called before local tribunals, and badges and certificates given to all unfit men.

BELMONT-SWANSEA RAILWAY.

NEWCASTLE, Monday.

A deputation from Swansea district waited upon Mr. G. Ball, Minister for Works, this morning, to urge the extension of the railway line from Belmont to Swansea. The distance between the two places is about eight or nine miles, and the land is mostly level. If a railway line were extended to Swansea it would open up a large area of Crown lands and induce a section of the growing population of this district to build their homes at Swansea and make an attractive holiday resort, as Lake Macquarie is on one side of the township and the ocean on the other. The railway line to Belmont is owned for the most part by the New Redhead Land and Coal Company. The department provides the rolling stock and staff, and the company maintains the line. The revenue is divided evenly between the department and the company.

Mr. Ball promised to refer the matter to the Cabinet.

NOT A STRIKE-MAKER.

MR. O'BRIEN'S PROTESTATIONS

THE MUSICIANS' UNION.

The secretary of the Musicians' Union of Australia (Mr. Alfred O'Brien), who was cited before Judge Rolin in the Industrial Court by B. and J. Fuller and J. C. Williamson, Ltd., yesterday, to show cause why he should not be penalised for being concerned in a strike, urged in his defence that he had never yet fomented a strike, but, on the other hand, had always tried to curb such outbreaks, and, secondly, that certain remarks of his intended to be jocular had been misconstrued.

In the action brought at the instance of B. and J. Fuller, Mr. Fawl, who represented the employers, asked Mr. O'Brien if he had not intimated to the leader of Fuller's orchestra that twelve men must be employed instead of nine.

Witness replied: No. I had an idle conversation with that gentleman, and, jocularly, I said that if I were Fuller I would employ 25 men in the orchestra, and so do better than Williamson.

Mr. Fawl: That is contrary to what you swore in the case before Mr. Justice Heydon.

His Honor: And I note from the correspondence that when Mr. Fuller courteously wrote inquiring of you whether the leader of his orchestra had correctly reported your demand, and asking you for information respecting it, you replied, "If you want to see me I am available."

Witness: Yes; it was a joke.

His Honor: There was no joke for Mr. Fuller, who had thousands of pounds sunk in a venture, and was apparently threatened with a strike. Is that the way you answer employers who politely write to you when there is an impending strike?—Yes, when I am dealing with men like Mr. Fuller and the employee you refer to.

His Honor: They wrote subsequently to you and you replied. The correspondence gives me the lowest opinion of your capacity to act as secretary of a union like this.—I am sorry your Honor should say that.

Mr. Fawl: You also held up J. and N. Tait's show, did you not?—The "Very Good Eddie" show.

Witness: No; I acted there as the employee of the men concerned. They had been engaged for the rehearsals, but not for the performances.

Is it not a fact that only because Barry Lupino stepped in and gave way to you rather than see thousands of pounds lost you allowed men to play for the performances?—No; the demands were the demands of the men, and they had not been engaged for the performances, only for the rehearsals. The demand was for the playing at the performances.

His Honor: Can you expect any human being to believe that?"

Witness: I usually expect what I say to be believed.

I ask you if you expect me to believe that entrepreneurs would engage men for the rehearsals and not for the performances?—And I tell your Honor that, though it is rare, still it is done.

Witness proceeded to quote instances.

His Honor, interrupting: They are all different. This that you now tell me is not conceivable. The rehearsals are preparation for the performances.

Witness: Preparation principally for the stage hands.

Mr. Fawl: Was not your union fined £200 and you yourself £50 because of a strike?

Witness: Yes.

Did you ever pay the fines?—Not in cash; we gave a quid pro quo.

You paid in kind?—Well, if everyone else had done for recruiting what I did they would not be calling for recruits now. I have never created a strike.

Is it not a fact that every agreement you have made since 1909 has been broken by you and your union?—Every agreement has been broken by the employers, who have arrogated to themselves the right to interpret the award as they wished.

There have been numerous injunctions against you?—There are two. I do not mind injunctions against me restraining me from fomenting strikes.

His Honor: How can you say such a thing?—Because it is what I never do.

But an injunction is not granted against any man in the street simply for the asking. Evidence has first to be forthcoming.

In reply to further questions by his Honor, witness explained that he was secretary of the New South Wales union, and as such could not deal with Commonwealth matters, and he was general secretary of the Commonwealth organisation, and as such could not interfere in a Federal fashion with State matters.

His Honor: It would aid us if, as secretary of the State branch, you could escape a little while from the general secretary of the Federal organisation and tell us what we want.

Witness: I am not a "Jekyll and Hyde" combination your Honor; the positions are distinct.

Arthur J. Davidson, president of the Musicians' Union of Australia, and secretary of the Victorian district, in reply to his Honor, said he frankly admitted that he was surprised at the tone of the letter addressed by Mr. O'Brien to Mr. Fuller.

His Honor: He was approached courteously by Mr. Fuller, and he ignores the request made, and says: "If you desire to see me at any time regarding the engagements of instrumentalists, I am available at any time if you desire to make an appointment." He would prefer to see Mr. Fuller at the union office, but would call upon Mr. Fuller at his office. Mr. Fuller wrote again, but got no answer to his specific request for information. Is such a man fit for the position of general secretary of your union?

Witness: The letter surprises me. It may have been caused by an error of judgment.

Mr. Fawl: Strikes are unknown among the musicians in Victoria, are they not?

Witness: We were once dragged into one.

Then does not the Federal body ever take cognisance of the strikes in Sydney, and the actions taken against their secretary here?

His Honor: Is there no way you can get rid of him?

Witness: We could call for his resignation, and he would not stay ten minutes after we did so if I know him rightly.

Mr. Fawl: Then all I can say is that you cannot have dropped him a hint yet.—I do not know what will happen after next Tuesday. (Laughter.)

Mr. O'Brien: Has Mr. Fuller ever failed to answer letters addressed by us to him?

Witness: I know that he ignored one of mine, and also a second one asking for an answer.

In reply to further questions witness said he had never known Mr. O'Brien to lay himself open to the charge of discourtesy, or of being unfit for the post he held.

Another witness said that Mr. O'Brien had not instigated the strike of the nine musicians at Fuller's.

The further hearing was adjourned till to-day.

UNIVERSITY AND SOLDIERS.

FREE COURSES SUGGESTED.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

A long discussion arose at a meeting of the Council of the Melbourne University to-day on a motion that in the opinion of the council all courses for returned soldiers and sailors should be free of all university fees and charges, and that the expense involved be borne by the Commonwealth. The following motion was agreed to,—"That, in the opinion of this council, it is desirable that financial provision should be made forthwith to enable the council to remit totally or partially university fees and charges in appropriate cases, or if thought desirable in all cases of returned soldiers and sailors."

PROMOTIONS.

Mrs. W. B. Rodd, of Lindfield, has received news that her brother, Lieutenant Norman Faddy, has been promoted to the rank of Captain. Lieutenant Faddy led his company after the other officers had been killed, and received his promotion on the field for conspicuous services. His sister, Nurse G. H. Faddy, who has been a nursing sister in both France and England since the early days of the war, has been decorated with the Royal Red Cross. Two other brothers are on service.

Mrs. A. G. Cormack, of Cressy-road, North Ryde, has received news that her husband, Lieutenant A. G. Cormack, has been promoted to the rank of captain.

News has been received by Mrs. C. W. Thomas, of Thornleigh, that her husband has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant. Prior to enlisting he was manager of the National Brick Company, Thornleigh, also captain of the Beecroft Rifle Club.

Mrs. W. Kelly, of Gray-street, Henley, has received information that her son, Cedric P. Kelly, who left Australia with the Field Ambulance, in 1916, has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant.

X DISEASE.

BROKEN HILL, Monday.

An Afghan, 55 years of age, has died in the hospital from X disease. He had been employed on a mine.

A boy 11 years of age has also been admitted to the hospital.

BERRIGAN, Monday.

A lad, aged 11 years, whose parents reside in Berrigan, died in the Narrandera Hospital, after a few days' illness, the cause being attributed to "X" disease.

STATE PARLIAMENT.

A CATCH VOTE.

ARBITRATION BILL DEBATE.

When the Legislative Assembly met yesterday afternoon it was generally known that the Government had determined to finish the discussion on the new Arbitration Bill at that sitting. Everybody was, therefore, resigned to the prospects of sitting up all night. This did not prevent an attempt on the part of the Opposition, however, to waste some more time. Incidentally a very interesting position arose over the display of tactics adopted. It became known that a motion for the adjournment of the House had been put into the Speaker's box. It was stated that members of the Opposition wanted to debate at length some recent remarks made from the Criminal Court bench by Judge Docker. The old trick of putting another motion for adjournment in the box was resorted to, and when this was drawn by the the Speaker a point of order, which it was known would be fatal, was taken against it. Another motion cannot be withdrawn from the box without an express resolution of the House to that effect, and even this cannot be done after the second motion has been drawn.

It was on a motion that this be done that the Government found itself beaten on a catch vote for the first time since it took charge of the House. Mr. Osborne moved the motion, when it was found that there were only 25 Government supporters in the House. Mr. Price voted with the Opposition, who thus counted 26. The Premier and his Ministers accepted the position good-humouredly, but there was a good deal of bustling about on the part of the Government whip for some time afterwards. To the chagrin of the Opposition, when the Speaker took the second motion from the box, it was found to be one by Mr. P. McGirr, dealing with some Dubbo police court case. This had been deposited without intimation by Mr. McGirr, but it effectually blocked, for that day at least, the discussion of the motion referring to Judge Docker's remarks. Mr. McGirr had hardly opened up his subject when one of his own colleagues, Mr. Cochran, moved that he be no further heard. It is an extremely rare thing for a member to be gagged by a motion moved from his own side of the House. When the Premier rose to reply to the few remarks that had been made by Mr. McGirr, Mr. Cochran also moved that he (the Premier) be no further heard. But by this time one or two belated members of the Government party had turned up, and the Government was safe again.

INDUSTRIAL DISEASES.

Replying to Mr. Brookfield, the Minister for Labour and Industry, Mr. Beeby, said the matter of compensation for victims of industrial diseases was being made one of the functions of the board of trade under the new arbitration bill. To bring them, especially miners, under the Workmen's Compensation Act would be no good to them, because under that Act it had to be proved where the disease had been contracted. That was one of the flaws of the Act.

WORK AT STRIKE CAMPS.

Answering Mr. John Storey, Leader of the Opposition, Mr. Beeby said that a number of gentlemen had rendered valuable assistance to the Government in connection with the administration of the camps formed at the time of the big strike last year. They had been reimbursed their out-of-pocket expenses, full particulars of which would be given to the House.

WALSH ISLAND.

In response to a query by Mr. Gardiner, the Premier said it was not a fact that obstacles had been placed in the way of the starting of the ship-building industry at Walsh Island. He hoped in a few days now to have overcome whatever difficulties had arisen.

EFFICIENCY FIRST.

During the course of his reply to Mr. Doyle on a question about the dismissal of several temporary hands at the Government Printing Office, the Premier said he had received the following minute on the matter of dismissals generally from the Public Service Board:—"The trade principle of 'last on, first to go,' appears to have found and still finds favour with the Government Printer. In the board's view, however, a better principle to follow would be to dispense with the services of the least efficient, and retain the competent men, due care and salutary safeguards being taken, of course, to see that no mistake is made as to a man's efficiency, or otherwise."

MINERS AND VICTIMISATION.

Reply to Mr. Kearsley, the Minister for Labour and Industry, Mr. Beeby, said that the conference on the general question of alleged victimisation in the mining industry was still sitting. It was hoped that the differences which had arisen would be settled, and until the conference had concluded its deliberations, he (the Minister) would discourage the further enlistment of outside labour for work in the Pelaw Main and Richmond Main mines.

The Minister for Agriculture, Mr. Grahame, said he had received from the managers of both these mines documentary proof of the statement he (the Minister) had made last week that local miners who had been offered work, and who had desired to go to work in the mines, had been prevented from signing on by the persuasion of union or lodge officials. The Minister produced and read from three reports received, which were signed by the men concerned, giving the facts.

Mr. Kearsley asked if it was not a fact that when work was resumed at Pelaw Main and Richmond Main it was agreed that the custom of "last to come, first to go," should be adhered to; that the names of the men who had been sent for were not at the head of the lists; and that, therefore, the lodge was simply insisting upon adherence to the rule. The Minister for Agriculture replied, "My recollection of the settlement of the strike is that the miners have never accepted the conditions, and have publicly stated so. Their conditions of settlement were that they would choose their own time to fight it over again, and, therefore, they forfeited their right to the rule. Mr. Baddeley and Mr. Willis have both said they never accepted the terms of the Government."

DAWES POINT CAMP.

The Assistant Treasurer, Mr. Fitzpatrick, in reply to Mr. Cochran, said steps had been taken prior to the recent report to the City Council to improve the sanitary conditions at the loyalists' camp at Dawes Point, and those steps would remove any cause for complaint.

RECENT MEAT INQUIRY.

The Premier said that a few days ago the leader of the Opposition had asked for a statement in regard to the remarks of the chairman of the Interstate Commission concerning the evidence given before a State Royal Commission which inquired into the meat industry a few years ago, and in regard to the persons implicated in that report. The position was that a prosecution had been initiated against one of the two men, Mr. Morgan Ford. As regards the other, the law officers of the Government, the Attorney-General, and the Solicitor-General reported that the two cases were not on all fours, and that there were no grounds for proceeding against Mr. Field. The inquiry was as to whether there was combination amongst certain men in the meat industry. Mr. Field's attitude was, "I decline to say." For refusing to answer questions, Mr. Field was prosecuted, but the case failed on technical objections. It would be apparent that a man who took that course put himself in a different position from the man who made statements that might prove to be untrue. In the circumstances, the law officers had been unable to see their way to initiate a prosecution in the case of Mr. Field. He had also obtained a report from the Royal Commissioner, Mr. T. R. Bavin, who said he was of opinion that Mr. Field had not given false evidence, and had not misled the commission in any answers he gave, but had claimed a legal right to refuse to answer certain questions for which he was prosecuted on the recommendation of the commission. The Royal Commission, Mr. Holman continued, had drawn its own inferences from the refusal to answer the questions.

A GAME OF TACTICS.

Mr. Bagnall moved the adjournment of the House to call attention to the need for taking some steps to secure the registration of securities given by limited liability companies. Mr. Bagnall had barely started his explanation of the subject when Mr. Osborne raised a point of order, on the ground that the second reading of the Companies (Registration of Securities) Bill was still on the business paper. The point of order was upheld.

Mr. Osborne then moved that a second notice of motion, if any, for adjournment be drawn. Decision on this motion was forced to a division, and the Ministerialists were defeated by 26 votes to 25, Mr. Price voting with the Opposition.

A DUBBO CASE.

The notice of motion drawn from the box was in the name of Mr. P. M. M'Girr, and dealt with the conviction of Allan Terry and Patrick Woods at Dubbo Police Court on December 17, 1917, on charges of behaving in an offensive manner in the street on December 7. Mr. M'Girr explained that the offences were alleged to consist of boo-hooing during a meeting in connection with the conscription referendum, that the charges were made under the Police Offences Act, whereas, he claimed, they should have been made under the Referendum Act, and, further, he contended, the conviction was pronounced before the case for the defence had been heard.

Mr. Hickey interrupted with a motion "that the question be now put," which he hastily corrected to one "that the member be no longer heard." These proposals had barely been passed over and Mr. McGirr had uttered only a few words of the continuation of his explanation, when Mr. Cochran moved "that the member be no longer heard." This was agreed to on the voices.

The Premier rose to reply to Mr. McGirr, but had not completed his opening sentence when Mr. Cochran moved that he be no longer heard. Voting on this went to a division, and it was defeated by 27 votes to 25. Mr. Price on this occasion voted with the Ministerialists, retorting to Oppositionists who twitted him on his change of sides, "I have never voted for the 'gag' in my life, and I'm not going to start now."

The Premier, resuming, said it would have been a fairer course had Mr. McGirr given earlier notice of his intention to bring forward this matter. It was the first he had heard of it, and without the papers in the case he could not say what the exact facts were. It seemed on Mr. McGirr's presentment of the case that there was room for at least inquiry. If he would consent to the motion being formally negatived he (the Premier) would ask the Minister for Justice to institute inquiries immediately.

Mr. McGirr assented to this course, and the motion was negatived on the voices.

INDUSTRIAL ARBITRATION.

The Industrial Arbitration (Amendment) Bill was further considered in committee.

The Minister for Labour and Industry (Mr. Beeby) secured amendments to clause 7 so as to make it provide that all employees engaged in rural industries shall be entitled to the living wages declared by the Board of Trade. He moved to amend the clause further so that, excepting such as were already included under any award prior to the passing of the Act, employees in rural industries should not be otherwise subject to the provisions of the principal Act or of the present bill.

Mr. Osborne objected, on the ground that employees in rural industries should have the same rights as employees in other industries, and submitted an amendment, giving the employees the right to make application to the Court for both increases in wages and betterment of conditions.

The Minister explained that the proposed amendment went beyond the scope of the clause. The general rule in the bill was that all employees should come under the Industrial Act; clause 7 was an exception to the rule, and specified what employees would not come under the measures.

The chairman (Mr. Colquhoun) rejected Mr. Osborne's amendment, and that submitted by the Minister for Labour was agreed to.

Mr. Beeby, replying to Opposition members, said that under the bill they were for the first time offering rural workers a definite measure of relief; the proposal under review would do far more for that section of workers than would any reference to the Court.

After five hours' spirited debate, the Minister for Agriculture moved the closure, which, on division, was carried by 31 votes to 26. The clause as amended by the Minister was then carried by 31 votes to 25.

Clauses 13, with a slight consequential amendment, and 14 were passed without debate.

Another exhaustive debate began on clause 15, which repeals section 7 of the Trades Union Act of 1881, and sets out the powers of unions in regard to its funds, powers of the Court to enforce agreements, enforcement of orders of the Court, scope of membership, returns and audits of books of unions. In response to previous criticism, the Minister (Mr. Beeby) had prepared comprehensive amendments of the original draft. He said it was desired to relieve purely political funds of unions from liability to attachment by the Court.

The clause was amended at the instance of Mr. Beeby to provide that a union might apply its money and property for political objects, so long as its rules provided that payments made in furtherance of such objects were to be made out of a separate fund, that contributions to such fund should not be a condition of admission to or membership of the union, and that members who did not contribute should not suffer disability.

Political objects were defined, among other things, as the payment of expenses in connection with candidatures for any public office, the distribution of literature in support of such candidature, or the maintenance, and publication of a political newspaper. By "public offices" was meant the office of member of any public body, having power to raise money by means of rates.

The sub-clause providing for the recovery of balances from individual members after the winding-up of a union, was struck out by the Minister.

With the Minister's consent, it was agreed to allow unions three months after the passing of the new Act to furnish returns of its membership, and to make such returns yearly, instead of half-yearly, thereafter.

The whole clause, as amended, was further discussed and passed on a party division at 1.30 a.m.

Dealing with the postponed definition clause, the Minister agreed to include the Crown as an employer, except as to its employees, who are under the Public Service Act. This will preserve the right of the railway and tramway employees to go to the Court.

The House was still sitting when this edition went to press.

HYDE PARK IMPROVEMENTS.

At yesterday's meeting of the City Council health committee a report by Mr. W. G. Layton, deputy town clerk, was read. Mr. Layton, after consulting and conferring with Mr. Cooper, the parks superintendent, and Mr. Lockley, made the following recommendations:—

"I do not recommend interfering with the four rows of Moreton Bay figs forming the main avenue from Macquarie-street to Liverpool-street beyond taking off the lower limbs and trimming them back into shapely trees. When this has been done, and a water supply provided, I think there is every probability of grass growing under them, which will greatly add to the appearance of that part of the park. I recommend that the first portion of the part to be dealt with be the section between Elizabeth-street and the main avenue and Park-street and St. James's-road; all the Moreton Bay figs in that area to be taken out, with the exception of a very fine specimen to the north of the steps at Market-street, and say two or three others which would be trimmed back to encourage a dense growth. The area under them would be tar paved, and fixed seats be placed there. These trees, with the Port Jackson figs and others that are there, would afford ample shade, and would form the necessary relief, and produce a good landscape effect. When these trees have been removed, the next work, and one of great importance, is the proper draining of the land. At present there is no system of sub-soil drainage, which no doubt accounts for many failures in the past. This work will present no great difficulties. An ample fall can be obtained to Elizabeth-street. While this work is in progress a water supply should be installed, and, as far as possible, automatic sprinklers provided, so that very little hand watering should be necessary. The treatment of the area would then be by large shrubberies and beds of colour. In some cases pathways would be bordered by wide shrubberies with masses of colour in the foreground. There is nothing more interesting or beautiful in the garden than a border of well-selected shrubs—flowering and otherwise—palms, etc. The diversity of foliage, colour, and growth is most engaging, and the splashes of colour in the foreground give the relief and decoration necessary. On the lawns would be groups of flowering trees, palms, etc., such as the Western Australian gum, Illawarra flame trees, jacaranda, Stenocarpus Cunninghamii, various wattles, lilli pilli, magnolia grandiflora, etc. The Elizabeth-street front offers fine scope for treatment, alternating masses of colour with groups of flowering and other trees and palms. I recommend that the sloping bank along this frontage be converted into a rockery of low-growing flowering plants, such as mesembryanthemums, ivy geraniums, dwarf nasturtiums, etc. The grass slope is not a success. So many people walk over it and lounge on it, it is not possible to keep it in order, and the border of colour would be an effective setting for the work behind it. The council will realise that in adopting such a scheme as is here suggested the whole character of Hyde Park will be changed in course of time, and when completed it would be a beautiful garden."

SUGAR AND BEEF PRICES.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Requests for the investigation of the prices of sugar beef, and other commodities were made to the Commissioner of Prices, Mr. Whitton, to-day, by the Consumers' League of Victoria. Mr. Whitton explained that, although he did not deal with the sugar question, he knew that there had been a serious shortage in the southern States. The meat position would not be re-opened, but additional evidence would be taken.

THE LATE MR. RAPHAEL J. HART.

The funeral of an old and prominent member of the U.O.A. Druids, Past-President Raphael Hart, took place at Rookwood yesterday afternoon, and the large gathering of Druidic and Masonic brethren bore testimony to the respect in which the deceased brother was held. The chief mourners were Messrs. John, Coleman, and Henry Hart (sons). The Druids were represented by grand lodge officers, members of board of directors, many past presidents, and officers of the Royal Arch Chapter and U.F.S. Dispensary, and the Masonic body by officers and members of Lodge Victoria. The Rev. A. D. Wolinski officiated at the grave. Wor. Bro. Gilroy read the Masonic funeral service, and that of the Druids was read by Grand President Williams.

METHODIST CONFERENCE.

The representative session of the Methodist Conference was resumed at 10 a.m. yesterday.

Rev. J. G. M. Taylor, general secretary for the Home Mission and Sustentation Society, presented the annual report. Thirty-seven new trusts and 310 new trustees had been registered during the year. The fund for assisting the settlement of a married in place of an unmarried minister in the circuits showed an excess of disbursements over income of £287. In order to equalise these for the future it was resolved that payments to assist circuits be altered so as to extend over five years, instead of three, £40 to be paid the first year, £32 the second year, £24 the third year, £16 the fourth year, and £8 for the fifth year. These alterations were not to affect circuits already receiving payments, unless they agreed to being brought under the new conditions.

At this stage of the proceedings the president introduced Mr. John Gale, of Queanbeyan as the last surviving member of the first Australian Methodist Conference, which met in York-street Church in 1855. Mr. Gale addressed the conference, quoting from documents in his possession, relative to conditions prevailing 80 years ago, contrasting the developments of succeeding years with conditions prevalent then, in the days of his own early childhood. He also passed over to the president a copy of the station sheet issued by the conference of 1856.

Mr. F. Over, treasurer of the loan funds, presented his report. The capital of the Rev. William Schofield Free and Perpetual Loan Fund amounted to £44,485. Of this amount £42,706 was out on loan. The Methodist Loan Fund had at present a capital of £18,476. The whole of these sums was distributed in loans, which were being regularly repaid at the rates arranged for. Of the whole amount there was but £750 in arrears, with a prospect of speedy extinction of that amount.

Rev. Harold Wheen presented a report concerning the Christian Endeavour societies of the Church. The serious decreases in the number of societies and members noted in previous years had been arrested.

Mr. P. N. Slade presented his report of the operations of the Methodist Fire Insurance Fund, which showed a profit on the year of £1317, which amount had been added to the reserve fund.

Affairs in connection with the far-west circuit were discussed. It was decided to change the name to that of the Far West Mission, with a view to securing grounds for a general appeal for further aid. Rev. G. R. Holland stated that success had attended their work in connection with motor car and motor-cycle travelling. Vast spaces had been bridged, and many settlements inaccessible to ordinary ministration of the church regularly visited. It was resolved that Currabubula be transferred from Tamworth to Quirindi circuit. It was decided that Collarenebri should be visited by the minister from Narrabri. It was also resolved that the minister appointed to Moree should visit Mungundi periodically.

Rev. T. F. Potts reported concerning the effort to replace the "Home of Rest" at Woodford for the use of ministers and their families. Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Waterhouse had given a splendid site of land for this object.

Rev. R. P. Watkinson, the Methodist minister stationed at Mackay, visited the conference, as a deputation from Queensland conference, seeking aid for congregations which have suffered from the recent devastation of that district. He gave a vivid description of the experiences of the population in and around Mackay during the cyclone. It was resolved to render assistance, and a committee was appointed to arrange the method of obtaining the sum required. Rev. F. Duesbury, convener of that committee, was authorised to receive subscriptions, and reported that during the discussion he had obtained money and promises to the amount of nearly £40, with the probability of receiving much more.

Rev. F. T. Walker advocated the setting apart of a minister in full connexion for special work among the non-church-going sections of the population under the Men's Own movement. Rev. J. G. Morris Taylor seconded the resolution. Dr. Carruthers moved an amendment that in view of proposals now under consideration for union between the Presbyterian, Congregational, and Methodist Churches for co-operation in work in the Domain, and among the masses, the proposal to set apart a minister be deferred for a year. Considerable discussion followed. The amendment was negatived, and the motion carried. A recommendation that Rev. F. T. Walker be set apart for this work was sent on to the pastoral session. It was further resolved that the committee on oversight should be directed to co-operate with other churches in this work should an opportunity arise, and that the Rev. F. T. Walker should be under direction of the chairman of the district, and in connection with the executive committee.

INTERCESSION AND MEMORIAL SERVICE.

The conference adjourned to make way for an intercession and memorial service last night. Prayers for the King and Empire were offered by Rev. E. Dyer, for an honourable victory by Chaplain Rev. C. J. Prescott, for the bereaved and suffering by Chaplain Rev. W. E. Bromilow, and for chaplains, doctors, and nurses by Chaplain Rev. T. B. Holmes. The anthems "Crossing the Bar" and "Hear My Prayer" were rendered by the C.M.M. choir. At the close of the service the organist played the Dead March in "Saul," and buglers from Newington cadets sounded the Last Post. Rev. E. J. Rodd delivered the address, basing his remarks upon the text, "It was well that it was in thine heart."

YEARLING SALES.

106 BRING 14,595 GUINEAS.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Australian breeders of blood stock are much more fortunate than English and French breeders, as three and a half years of war have not affected the Australian blood stock market. Messrs. William C. Yuille and Co. held their annual yearling sales at Newmarket to-day, and in about four hours they disposed of 106 yearlings for 14,695 guineas. The average was up to the pre-war standard. At the yearling sales in March, 1914, 84 lots were sold for 15,796 guineas, and the average was 188 guineas. The figures were even better the following year, as 95 young ones made 20,880 guineas, and the average was 219½ guineas. Two years ago the average was 191 guineas for 85 yearlings, and the total for the sale was 16,235 guineas. Last year 99 lots changed hands at an average of 177½ guineas. The Shipley stud yearlings were sold this year when the stud was dispersed, and 21 colts and fillies made 7560 guineas, and averaged 360 guineas. To-day the average was 137½ guineas. So far, this autumn in Victoria, 127 yearlings have realised 23,155 guineas, and the average is 173 guineas.

FATAL APATHY.

SIR WM. IRVINE'S WARNING.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Sir William Irvine, speaking at Wesley Church on Sunday, said a fatal apathy was creeping over the people here, and if we did not shake it off we would sink lower and lower. It was creeping from the head downwards. The people had been led on a false course from the beginning. To those who said that conscription was finally defeated, he could say that there were some causes in which defeat could not be accepted. (Cheers.) If defeat meant the sullying of our honour as a people, and the abandonment of our soldiers to their fate, any party or Government which accepted defeat forfeited its right to exist. (Cheers.) No political expediency could justify it in doing something essentially and fundamentally wrong. It was time we learnt that fact in Australia. (Cheers.) The actual and immediate future position was that the men who joined the colours now or in a month or so would not be available for the fighting of the present campaign or season. If the tension now existing continued unabated during this year, the war could not end without a campaign in 1919. If that became apparent within a few months the question of her duty would come before Australia again, but it must not come in the form of a referendum. Parliament must then take the responsibility of doing what was necessary to save the nation in the time of crisis.

FAMILY'S NARROW ESCAPE.

Shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday morning an outbreak of fire occurred in a two-story weatherboard house in Melody-street, Coogee. The fire, which originated in the kitchen, was discovered by Mr. Arthur Chapman, the occupier of the premises, who was awakened by the crackling of timber. He rushed out of his room, but found that owing to the flames and smoke escape by the stairway was impossible. By this time the place was well alight, and he jumped from the balcony to the ground. Securing a ladder, he placed it up against the wall, and by this means rescued his wife and three children. The Randwick and Waverley fire brigades were quickly on the scene, but the building and its contents were completely destroyed before their arrival.

The premises were insured in the Mercantile Fire Insurance Company for £350, and the furniture for £300. The cause of the fire is unknown.

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

Reports by the latest New Zealand files regarding the great Biplane's defeat in the Wanganui Guineas, run over a mile, show that Deeley showed anxiety almost from the word "go." There were only three starters. Acre was the first to jump off from Estland, and they had a slight advantage from Biplane, who settled down on the inside. Deeley, however, moved him up to the others, and was with them at the four-furlongs post. Estland responded well to his rider's call, and left the others as the straight was approached. Biplane was ridden hard, but Estland went away, and won very decisively. Mason, Biplane's trainer, it is said, was not sanguine of the colt showing his best form in the race, as he had not done well since winning the Jackson Stakes.

Mr. J. Dailey will declare weights for the Doncaster and Sydney Cup on Friday, at noon.

Poitrel, whose preparation in Melbourne was interfered with, is to be turned out for a good spell.

Mr. T. A. Stirton has decided to start Cetigne in the C. M. Lloyd Stakes on Thursday, and Desert Gold is also a likely runner. It is probable that if Cetigne wins the stakes will be given to an Australian patriotic fund. Prince Viridis will also run in this race.

Our Melbourne correspondent telegraphs:—In discussions on the Australian Cup to-day, Wallace Isinglass was a hot favourite. Defence was next in demand, followed closely by Two Blues, Red Pennant, and Prince Bardolph. These appeared to be the only horses to which much attention was paid.

V.R.C. AUTUMN MEETING.

SECOND (AUSTRALIAN CUP) DAY.

The principal attraction to-day, the second day of the Victoria Racing Club's Autumn Meeting, is the Australian Cup, run over 2¼m. In addition a great deal of interest is shown in the meeting of the crack two-years-old in the Ascot Vale Stakes; and the programme also includes the Hopeful Stakes, March Steeplechase, Bourke Handicap, and the Junior Handicap. The starting times are as follow:—

Hopeful Stakes, 1 p.m.
Ascot Vale Stakes, 1.55.
Australian Cup, 2.40.
March Steeplechase, 3.40.
Bourke Handicap, 4.20.
Junior Handicap, 5.5.

Girralong, who has a win to her credit, should win amongst the Hopeful Stakes lesser lights, from Cape Sky and Cragrose. In the battle for the Ascot Vale Stakes, Palm Leaf's most dangerous opponent is Outlook, and the result may place them, Palm Leaf, Outlook, and Tragic Star. With the youngsters out of the way for the time being, the Australian Cup places may be filled by Defence, Two Blues, and Wallace Isinglass, with Red Pennant a probable place-getter behind Defence. Those likely to run prominently in the March Steeplechase are Tinto, Artillery Bill, and Acclamation. A good field in the Bourke Handicap, over seven furlongs, may finish with Hopeig first past the post, followed by Petracia and The Hague. The day's sport will conclude with the Junior Handicap, and with a start Red Fox, Glittering Gold, and Fitness may fill the places.

TRAINING NOTES.

FLEMINGTON.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

It was fine this morning, but, owing to the heavy rain on the two previous days, the sand track was unfit for use, and what galloping there was had to be done on the tan and the cinders, but there were very few items of interest. Icon struck out for about six furlongs on the tan, and did the last four in 54s. Rosanna, also on the tan, ran five furlongs in 1m 6s. Moorang sprinted three furlongs on the cinders in 38s, and Colour Sweet, Innocence, and Yoorina also had short flutters. Quillion got over half a mile on the tan in 55s, while Lilian Blankney covered a similar distance on the cinders in 51s. Wallace Isinglass strode along for two and a quarter miles on the tan at a little over even-time speed, and looked well after his race. Dalcross sprinted half a mile on the tan in 52s, while Fitness and Glenfinn occupied a shade longer in going a like journey on the cinders, where Democracy did a furlong less in 38½s. Prince Bardolph moved very freely while comfortably running a mile on the tan in 1m 5⅓s. Broken Glass was 1m 54s going the same distance on the cinders, where Petracia dashed over three furlongs in 37½s. Mountain God went a furlong further in 50½s. Eltham went strongly, and Elston beat Escomb over six furlongs on the tan in 1m 21½s.

ASCOT.

Several horses went to Ascot and worked on the course there over short distances, and it may be mentioned that the three furlongs is more than the actual length. Desert Gold was going comfortably for half a mile in 53s, while Lingle went that distance in 52½s. A furlong less was done by King's Bounty in 41½s, by Outlook and Offspring in 41½s, by Cragrose in 42½s and by Tenterbook in 41s, while Calix, who accompanied the latter, lost his rider.

CAULFIELD.

Nothing was doing at Caulfield this morning, the sand being unfit to work on.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

All metal lines were quiet yesterday. Notwithstanding the easing in the quotations for fencing wire there was little demand. The price, though lower, is still discouraging for any but the most necessary work. No. 8 black was worth, in small lots, £50 a ton; No. 10, £53; No. 8, galvanised, £52; and No. 10, £54. Australian barbed wire was steady at unchanged rates. Bar iron was selling at £23/10/, except small sizes of rounds, flats, and squares for which £35 was asked. Shoeing iron and shoeing steel were worth £29/10/. Angle iron was up to £32. Little was doing in rabbit traps, although now should be the time for the demand to increase. The cancellation of orders by the British Government has caused the demand to decrease to less than ordinary requirements. I.X.L. traps were quoted at 27/, special at 28/6, and Lane's at 25/. Sheep shears sold irregularly up to 89/. Before the war they were sold as low as 24/6. Lead was without alteration at £40 for full rolls. Plaster was worth 55/ a cask, but King's Windsor was quoted at 57/6 to 60/, according to quantity.

The oil market continued excited over castor oil and the prohibition of its export from India. There was very little available in parcels, either here or in Melbourne. Most houses were quite content to hold what they had and dole it out in small lots to their customers at 7/. A sale of a small parcel was made at considerably over this price. Crushers in Melbourne wanted 7/3 f.o.b. For parcels of turpentine holders asked 5/9 to 5/10. Australian linseed oil was quoted at 6/8 for raw for lots of 100 gallons and under, and 6/10 for boiled. Whitelead was steady, Australian and American each at £72, English at £88. Other oils were without quotable change.

A strong demand existed for woolpacks yesterday. Queensland was buying wherever she could. Business was done at 5/9, and at the close of the day most holders asked 6/ each. Calcutta quoted branbags at impossible prices, one quotation being 15/3, simply because the business was not wanted. Developments in the East are expected to take up a great deal more jute; indeed, the cables plainly stated so. Furthermore, the use of jute material for packages is widely increasing on account of the scarcity of packing cases. Hessian, which a little while ago was quoted at 101/ per 100 yards, was cabled yesterday at 160/. Branbags were very strongly held yesterday for 10/ delivered. A sale of cornsacks was made, and, being made to a consumer, the price charged was 10/ a dozen. Seaming twine had a strong call. Five-ply in bale lots was quoted at 48/ to 60/ per dozen pounds. Even common jute twine was worth 15/ per dozen pounds.

EXPORT DIFFICULTIES.

Merchants complain of the methods which have been adopted by the Federal Government in the restriction of export of Australian linseed oil and Australian whitelead. That there should be restriction they acknowledge. Our own market should not be depleted to supply New Zealand with Australian products. But these merchants point out there is no reason why they should be compelled to give away their business to their competitors, for in some measure the crushers and corroders are their competitors as well as their suppliers, in order to get an order for export. Before a permit for the exportation of Australian linseed oil is granted the application must be endorsed by the crushers. That means disclosing to the crushers the name of the merchant's customer in New Zealand. The crushers have undertaken to keep Australia supplied with linseed oil, and they cannot do it if permits for export are granted without reference to them, but the merchant asks surely there must be some other way of the crushers advising the export authorities without the necessity of the merchant divulging to the crushers the name of the New Zealand buyer. The same method is followed when it is desired to export whitelead, and with the same objection to divulging names. Probably if representations were made to the Federal authorities the impropriety would be rectified.

The Sussex-street market opened brightly yesterday. All leading lines were in strong demand and prices were well maintained. Butter was well stocked and heavy sales were booked at the proclaimed prices. Some of the consignments showed "mould" on the paper. HOMEBUSH STOCK SALES.

SHEEP.

MARKET AGAIN LOWER.

Except for prime heavy weight sheep, carrying good skins, which sold well at late rates, the market at Homebush was lower yesterday. Competition at early sales was very dull, and for a time there seemed little life "in the market." But as the morning wore on competition improved, but prices remained at opening rates. The penning totalled 18,602, which was about 1500 less than was drawn for. The sheep were of average quality, mostly useful trade sorts, with a fair sprinkling of high quality sheep. They came from 84 owners. The southern and western districts were well represented in the offering. The attendance of buyers was quite up to the average, all sections of the trade being present.

The top price for merino wethers was 38/10 for a line of 291, which came from G. Davidson, of Gular. They averaged 37/4. J. Morgan, of Dubbo, forwarded a nice line of 420 cross wethers, which topped the market at 42/5, and averaged 40/. Another good line of cross wether hoggets from S. A. Thompson, of Merah North, sold to 43/4, and averaged 37/9. Amongst the largest lines forwarded was 1233 merino wethers, which made to 35/, and averaged 31/11. Cross ewes from A. J. CATTLE.

AN IRREGULAR MARKET.

There was a yarding of 1435 cattle from 66 owners. The truckings were mostly in lots of from 10 to 30, but there were also consignments of from 50 to 70 head. The cattle were of good average quality, and represented all classes from bobbies to heavy-weight bullocks and prime cows. There was a large attendance of buyers from the metropolis and the mountain and coastal districts. Store buyers were also in attendance. The market was most irregular. Some sales were decidedly in favour of buyers while others favoured sellers. Towards the close of the day competition livened and the market brightened the sellers having the advantage, but on the day's proceedings there was little change in values. W. R. Scott, of Moree, took first place in price. His yard of 10 bullocks sold to £24/9/, and averaged £24. There was also a very good line of 47 cows and heifers from James Shepherd, of Rockgidgul station, in the district of Quirindi. These sold to £21/6/, and averaged £17/15/4.

Among the principal sales were the following:—From J. M. L. Macdonald, of Quirindi, 33 bullocks and steers to £19, avg. £17/17/; from A. A. SALES FOR FEBRUARY.

The sheep and cattle sold at Homebush yards during the last month were as follow:—Sheep, 125,226; and cattle, 12,004.

SOLDIERS AND DRINK.

The secretary of the Prime Minister's Department, in a letter to the president of the Health Society Congress, Sydney, says that information has been received from the Australian military authorities abroad that during the past six or eight months the commandant of the administrative headquarters and his officers have been agreeably surprised at the absence of drunkenness among members of the Australian Imperial Force. A few cases of intemperance are, of course, inevitable.

MINING.

A moderate amount of business was transacted in the mining division of the Stock Exchange yesterday. All groups received a proportion of the day's dealings.

In the silver section, Proprietary scrip (for cash) was /6 firmer; British Old opened at 40/3, a rise of /3, and advanced a further /1½ to 40/4½; Junction North changed hands at 22/, an increase of /6.

Western Australian gold ventures were dealt with fairly freely; the opening cash transaction of Edna May Deeps was effected at 26/6, a price at a level with that of Saturday, subsequent sales were recorded at increasing figures, until 27/8 was reached. The closing price was 27/6. Consols moved out at 15/10½.

There was very little of interest in connection with the copper section; tin propositions were also quiet.

IVANHOE GOLD CORPORATION.

KALGOORLIE, Monday.

The manager of the Ivanhoe Gold Corporation reports having despatched the following cable to the London office a few days ago:—"At December 31, 1917, estimated ore reserves were 1,025,874 tons, value per ton 34/3. Arrived at from mine records. 3000 check samples confirm mine assays. Owing to increasingly inefficient labour, also shorter hours granted miners, together with lower grade of ore, it will be impossible to maintain tonnage, and obtain present profit. Recommend reduce profit for month to £3400 as soon as possible." In reply, the directors have cabled, approving of the above recommendation as to the profit, and have instructed the manager to commence reduction for the month of March.

AMUSEMENTS.

CRITERION THEATRE.

Miss Kathlene Macdonell will make her farewell appearance to-night in "Daddy Longlegs," a play to which she brings an abrupt impetuous charm that is very youthful and engaging. Mr. Waldron is another favourite artist whose return is uncertain, or, at the best, at a far remove.

Miss Marie Tempest, Mr. Graham Browne, and the supporting artists of the J. C. Williamson English Comedy Company arrived here yesterday from New Zealand. The voyage was not unpleasant, and the star is in excellent trim for the opening of her season in "Mrs. Dot" to-morrow night.

THE CHEER OH GIRLS.

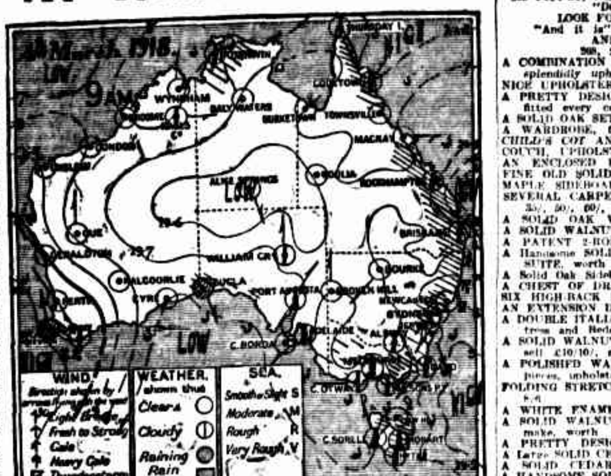
The Cheer Oh Girls, under the direction of Mrs. Bennett White, are giving one of their bright revues at the Repertory Theatre on Wednesday, 6th, in aid of the Comforts Funds for Menangle troops. Chaplain-Colonel Black and Captain R. Munro are hon. secretaries, and Brigadier-General Antill and staff will be in the audience. The booking is heavy.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY.

The sports in connection with the St. Patrick's Day celebrations will take place on Saturday, March 16, on the Agricultural Showground. The concert will be held in the Town Hall, Monday, March 18. The artists will include Ella Caspers, George Whitehead, William Sherley, and Winifred Carter (harpist). Minnie Hooper is arranging the national dances. A select choir of 200 voices will render Irish airs. Our Lady of Mercy Convent, Parramatta, orchestra will also assist. The plan opens at popular prices to-morrow at Nicholson's.

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.



A fitting sequence to Saturday's chart is depicted on to-day's chart. The slump in pressure (mentioned on Saturday) progressed to such an extent that there is now shown a remarkable example of unstable conditions over fully four-fifths of Australia. So far these have given rise to the development of several closed-curve depressions, one in the heart of the Continent, the second off the south coast of Queensland, and the third about the New Hebrides. The chief of these is the cyclonic disturbance possessing considerable energy between New Caledonia and the south coast of Queensland. This was shown on Saturday off the central coast of that State, and has since worked southward. Its further movement should be associated with stormy weather on our north coast; gales, rough seas, and heavy rain being indicated north from Newcastle. Over inland parts of New South Wales the unstable nature of the conditions favour scattered rain and thunderstorms, and probably some hail, with isolated strong local blows. The high pressure over New Zealand and the Tasman Sea is co-operating with the cyclonic disturbance, and a new "high" of moderate energy is shown over Western Australia, where the southerly winds attending its advance side are causing cool weather. Slight Antarctic activity is in evidence over the Southern Ocean.

Ocean Forecast.—Easterly gales between the Hunter and Brisbane; no data from W.A.; elsewhere smooth to moderate; cyclone off Double Island.
